"FINN VARRA MAA."

There was a crowded audience at the farewell matinee of the Irish fairy pantomime, "Finn Varra Maa," at the Theatre Royal on Saturday. At the close of the performance, in response to continued applause, the curtain was raised again on the final tableau, and Mr. Dermot O'Dowd, addressing the audience, stated that when they started on the enterprise, a number of so-called friends told them it was doomed to failure—that it was hopeless to run a series of matinees of such a character at the Theatre Royal. In face of that pessimistic warning, they had successfully produced an Irish pantomime by an Irish author, with music by an Irish composer, Irish costumes and scenery, played by Irish artists. They were originally prepared to spend £1,000 on the production. Their actual expenses amounted to £1,200, and they had not only got back their capital, but had a little interest to boot.

In response to repeated calls of "Author," Mr. T. H. Nally bowed his acknowledgments from the stage, and Mr. Molyneux Palmer, the composer, acknowledged a similar compliment from one of the boxes. Bouquets were presented to Miss Rita North and Miss Rock, who played the parts of Finn's attendant fairies, Mist and Echo. These young ladies also received boxes of chocolates from the audience, as did Master Gerald Rock (Padhar Bawn) and other juvenile members of the company.

IRISH PLOTHOLDERS' UNION.

The annual meeting of the Irish Plotholders' Association was held yesterday afternoon at Charlemont House Marino, Clontarf. Delegates were present from various provincial centres. Mr. J. Donnelly presided. The delegates having been welcomed by Mr. W. J. Murphy, Chairman of the Marino Plotholders' Association,

The Chairman mentioned that fifty Dublin clergymen had been asked by the Association to urge the development of the movement. Land was being withheld by landowners in Dublin. Sir T. W. Russell had informed a deputation from the union that the Department were not quite certain that they had the power to fix a rent, but they were inclined to think that they had. There were 4,000 applications for plots in Dublin, and if that number were doubled, no Government department could stand in the way. It was only by unity and the extension of the membership of the union that the movement could succeed, and they must endeavour to get in all the plotholders, remembering that the creation and possession of plots involved the exercise of the ownership of land.

Mr. M. J. Judge proposed, and Mr. P. F. Donagh (Drogheda) seconded, the adoption of the report which dealt with the activities of the union throughout the country during the year. It was unanimously adopted.

Mr. W. J. Murphy said that if the landowners persisted in their attitude of withholding land there would be trouble in Dublin as well as elsewhere. When the Christian Brothers at Marino were willing to give plotholders land at a reasonable price he did not see why other landowners should not be compelled to do the same.

Messrs. O'Donnell (Limerick), Robinson (Kilmainham), Dillon (Crumlin), Farrelly (Marino), O'Farrelly (Glasnevin), Quinn (Inchicore), and Sheehan (Dundrum) also supported the motion.

Resolutions were passed urging the Government to ensure every willing worker an opportunity of engaging in food production, and advocating the control of rents, travelling facilities for plotholders, and the transfer of grazing lands for the purpose of food production.

DUBLIN AND DISTRICT.

V.A.D. Entertainment.—There was a fairly good attendance at the entertainment given on Saturday evening in the supper room of the Mansion House, and organised by the 4th V.A.D. City of Dublin British Red Cross Society. Songs, dances, a whistling solo, a sketch, and a monologue were included in the performance, and the items were well received.

Royal Zoological Society.—The Council of the Royal Zoological Society of Ireland met on Saturday, Sir Frederick Moore, President, in the chair. Notwithstanding the uncertain weather, the Secretary was able to report that the average week's attendance was well maintained, there being a considerable increase at the gate for the past week as compared with the corresponding week last year. Visitors for the week, 1,100.

Queen's Theatre Concerts.—The series of Sunday concerts at the Queen's Theatre was continued last evening, when a large audience enjoyed an attractive programme. The items, which were agreeably varied, elicited general appreciation. Amongst the artists whose names figured on the programme were Miss Lena Munro, Miss Fortie Ryan, Mr. Walter McNally, Mr. M. A. O'Keeffe, Mr. P. M'Namara, and Master W. Rathborne.

Pillar Picture House.—The management of the Pillar Picture House will produce to-day and throughout the remainder of the week a film of exceptional interest in "The Crisis," by the popular American author, Winston Churchill. Dealing with America's great fight for humanity, with Abraham Lincoln as the central figure, and depicting with wonderful realism the battles incidental to that historic struggle, there is interwoven a charming love story. Special music will add to the attraction of the performances, which will be continuous from 1 till 11.

Fatal Wall Collapse.—At the inquest held by the City Coroner upon the body of Peter Mackey, builder and contractor, 48 Camden street, it was stated that on Friday, with Mr. Thomas Carton, a Mr. Conway, and Mr. O'Connor, he went to examine a wall at 17 Haddon street, which was to be taken down, when a wall eight feet high forming the hall collapsed without warning. Messrs. Conway and O'Connor and the deceased man were pinned in by a heap of bricks, and Mr. Carton, who had not entered the hall, called for assistance. The injured men were taken to Jervis street hospital by ambulance. Mr. Mackey was conscious on arrival, and though an operation was performed, died in the afternoon from fracture of the skull. A verdict of accidental death was returned.

Catholic Club Concert.—The sixth Sunday concert of the season at the Catholic Club, Upper Sackville street, was given last evening, under the direction of Mr. Clarke-Barry. The programme was, as usual, a high-class and well-selected one. Mr. Clarke-Barry's own orchestra of 12 instrumentalists contributed a fine selection of music from Auber and Wagner. The principal items were excerpts from "Masaniello," "Tannhauser," and "Lohengrin," and at the close a selection from "The Yeomen of the Guard." Mr. Augustine Roland sang "Tis a Charming Girl I Love," in excellent style, and responded to an encore with "The Ould Plaid Shawl." He also contributed two songs in Irish—"The Yellow Road" and "The Croskeen Lawn." Miss Evelyn Mariagh, a young soprano, had a very warm reception in two numbers, which she sang with much charm and taste. Mr. P. W. Keogh contributed a violin solo, and Mr. Alfred Hinden a 'cello solo.

Wounded Soldiers Entertained.—The staffs of the Irish Land Commission and the Estates Commissioners were the hosts of a large party of wounded soldiers on Saturday afternoon at the Irish Automobile Association's Winter Club at Ballsbridge. Eighty-one men were conveyed to the club from the following hospitals:—Corrig Castle (Kingstown), Linden (Blackrock), Orthopaedic (Blackrock), Eye and Ear (Dublin), King George V. (Dublin), Richmond (Dublin), and Stevens' (Dublin). A large variety of indoor games were engaged in, after which a substantial tea was served. The arrangements for the tea were carried out by a number of ladies, members of the club, and their friends. An enjoyable smoking concert followed, Sir Algernon Coote, Bart., H.M.L., presiding. The following contributed much-appreciated items to the programme—Mrs. Scales (song), Mr. Gallagher (song), banjo and guitar quartette by Mr. Maguire and others, and humorous songs by Mr. Bridge Whelan and Mr. Evans. The latter appeared in Scottish costume, and was a great success in his Lauder selections. The whole entertainment, which was admirably arranged, was greatly enjoyed by the soldiers. The men were conveyed to and from the entertainment by the Automobile Club, who supplied their ambulance service, assisted by members' cars. Members of the staffs of the Land Commission and the Estates Commissioners looked after the games, which included billiards, ... and prizes were given to the successful competitors.

Institute of Journalists.—The annual general meeting of the Dublin and Irish Association District of the Institute of Journalists was held on Saturday at 35 Dawson street, Dublin, Mr. J. J. McGahan, J.P., presiding. Mr. P. W. Murphy referred to the death in action of Mr. Gerald Harris, who had acted as hon. secretary since 1914, and served the Institute with an energy and zeal that won the admiration of every member. A resolution of deep regret at Mr. Harris's death and of sincere sympathy with his bereaved widow was passed. The report of the Committee stated that fourteen members had been elected during the year, and mentioned that action was taken regarding the appointment of local correspondents and also with regard to securing adequate salaries for journalists in Dublin and the provinces. The report and balance sheet were adopted. Mr. Murphy having been declared the incoming Chairman, the presided, and returned thanks. Mr. J. R. ... was elected hon. secretary, Mr. ... treasurer, and Mr. H. Honahan ... The outgoing Chairman (Mr. McGahan) was nominated for Fellowship of the Institute. Mr. Sinclair seconded.

ULSTER VOLUNTEER FORCE HOSPITAL.

CURATIVE WORKSHOPS OPENED

The curative workshops, an important annexe of the Abercorn wing of the Ulster Volunteer Force Hospital, Belfast, were formally opened on Saturday afternoon by Lady Cynthia Hamilton, daughter of the Duchess of Abercorn, in the presence of a large gathering. The Duchess of Abercorn was to perform the ceremony, but her Grace unexpectedly found herself unable to fulfil the engagement owing to the illness of one of her children. The opening was the first public act of Lady Cynthia Hamilton, who was accompanied by her sister, Lady Kathleen.

On the motion of General Sir George Richardson, K.C.B., seconded by Dr. Howard Stevenson, the Lord Mayor took the chair.

At the request of the Chairman, Mr. F. G. Maguire, Chairman of the Limbless Committee of the hospital, made a statement regarding the new workshops. He said that it was intended to encourage the more seriously wounded and limbless men to interest themselves in useful and productive occupations. The buildings, which had cost over £5,500, had been provided, and would be, he hoped, be paid for by voluntary subscriptions from the patriotic loyal Ulster men and women. The gymnasium had been equipped by the members of staff, and friends of Messrs. Davidson and Co., the Sirocco Engineering Works, in memory of the late Captain J. S. Davidson. This gift comprises appliances for exercising every joint in the human body. A sum of £500 was being paid by the British Red Cross Society towards the equipment of the workshops, and the War Office would, he understood, give an annual grant of £500 to defray the cost of purchasing raw material, providing instructors and foremen, and running the concern generally.

Colonel Sir Robert Jones, Liverpool, pioneer and superintendent of the orthopaedic branch of the R.A.M.C., delivered an interesting address, in which he expressed his unbounded admiration at the thoroughly businesslike way in which orthopaedic work had been taken up by the Belfast Committee.

Lady Cynthia Hamilton then, amid applause, declared the branch opened. She said—I am very glad to come here to-day to open these fine workshops and gymnasium. I hope that the men who use them will be greatly benefited. I now declare them open, and wish every success in the work. (Applause.)

A vote of thanks was accorded Lady Hamilton on the motion of Dr. C. R. Metcalfe, United States Medical Corps, seconded by Mr. Fred Horn, and Lady Hamilton, in acknowledging, said that the vote of thanks and the gifts of the gold key and chocolates would always remind her of her first public act. (Applause.)

A vote of thanks was also accorded to the Lord Mayor for presiding, on the motion of Lieutenant-Colonel A. B. Mitchell, seconded by Mr. S. C. Davidson.

IRISH PLOTHOLDERS' UNION.

The annual meeting of the Irish Plotholders' Association was held yesterday afternoon at Charlemont House Marino, Clontarf. Delegates were present from various provincial centres. Mr. J. Boe ... presided. The delegates having been welcomed by Mr. W. J. Murphy, Chairman of the Marino Plotholders' Association,

The Chairman mentioned that fifty Dublin clergymen had been asked by the Association to urge the development of the movement. Land was being withheld by landowners in Dublin. Sir T. W. Russell had informed a deputation from the union that the Department were not quite certain that they had the power to fix a rent, but they were inclined to think that they had. There were 4,000 applications for plots in Dublin, and ... that number were doubled, no Government department could stand in the way. It was only by unity and the extension of the membership of the union that the movement could succeed, and they must endeavour to get in all the plotholders, remembering that the creation and possession of plots involved the exercise of the ownership of land.

Mr. M. J. Judge proposed, and Mr. F. P. Donagh (Drogheda) seconded, the adoption of the report, which dealt with the activities of the union throughout the country during the year. It was unanimously adopted.

Mr. W. J. Murphy said that if the landowners persisted in their attitude of withholding land there would be trouble in Dublin as well as elsewhere. When the Christian Brothers at Marino were willing to give plotholders land at a reasonable price, he did not see why other landowners should not be compelled to do the same.

Messrs. O'Donnell (Limerick), Robinson (Kilmainham), Dillon (Crumlin), Farrelly (Marino), O'Farrelly (Glasnevin), Quinn (Inchicore), and Sheehan (Dundrum) also supported the motion.

Resolutions were passed urging the Government to ensure every willing worker an opportunity of engaging in food production, and advocating the control of rents, travelling facilities for plotholders and the transfer of grazing lands for the purposes of food production.

There was a crowded audience at the farewell matinee of the Irish fairy pantomime, "Finn Varra Maa," at the Theatre Royal on Saturday. At the close of the performance, in response to continued applause, the curtain was raised again on the final tableau, and Mr. Dermot O'Brien, addressing the audience, stated that when they started on the enterprise, a number of so-called friends told them it was doomed to failure—that it was hopeless to run a series of matinees of such a character at the Theatre Royal. In face of that pessimistic warning, they had successfully produced an Irish pantomime by an Irish author, with music by an Irish composer, Irish costumes and scenery, played by Irish artists. They were originally prepared to spend £1,000 on the production. Their actual expenses amounted to £1,300, and they had not only got back their capital, but had a little interest to ...

In response to repeated calls of "Author," Mr. T. H. Nally bowed his acknowledgments from the stage, and Mr. Molyneux Palmer, the composer, acknowledged a similar compliment from one of the boxes. Bouquets were presented to Miss Rita ... and Miss Rock, who played the parts of Finn's attendant fairies, Mist and Echo. These young ladies also received boxes of chocolates from the audience, as did Master Gerald Rock (Padhar Bawn) and other juvenile members of the company.

DEATH OF MR. E. P. WILSON.

The death took place on Saturday at Stratford-on-Avon of Mr. E. P. Wilson, a famous cross-country rider of the seventies and eighties. Mr. Wilson, who was 71 years of age, won, before he was 21, the Birmingham Grand Annual Steeplechase on Tiger. He won the National Hunt Steeplechase on five occasions, four of them consecutive, in 1877 on the Duke of Hamilton's Bear, in 1881 on Mr. Talbot's Pride of Prussia, in 1882 on Mr. Jenkins's Llantarnum, in 1883 on Mr. Tritton's Satellite, and in 1884 on Mr. Howett's Equity. He also won the Liverpool Grand National in 1884 on Voluptuary, and in the following year on Roquefort. He was closely identified with the victories of Congress, one of the best steeplechasers that ever ran. Among the races he accounted for were the Grand Sefton Steeplechase in 1873 and the Leamington Grand Annual in 1875 and 1876.

MUNSTER HERB GROWERS.

MEETING OF CORK ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Munster Herb Growing and Collecting Association was held on Saturday in the Clarence Room, Imperial Hotel, Cork. Sir Bertram Windle (Chairman) presided, and there were also present:—The Countess of Bandon, the Bishop of Cork, Cloyne, and Ross, Lady Dobbin, and many others.

Mr. C. J. Lane, solicitor, Hon. Secretary, read the report, which stated that—

Through the kindness of the President and Governing Body of University College, Cork, a site in their grounds was given free for the erection of the drying shed, which was accordingly erected there at a cost of £177 15/6. It was completed for use in May, 1917. The services of Miss Margaret Walsh were procured as superintendent, and she was sent over to England to be trained, and entered upon her duties immediately the shed was complete. The Committee have aimed at organising the growing and collecting of herbs throughout the province of Munster, but, so far, their efforts outside the county of Cork have not met with much success, owing, chiefly, to the difficulty of the carriage of fresh herbs from a distance. In the county of Cork, however, the quantity of material collected, though not all that might have been desired, has, on the whole, been satisfactory. District members were appointed in a number of centres, who organised the work in their respective districts, and up to the end of 1917 300 consignments of material were received at the drying shed, for which the sum of £63 6/- has been paid to the collectors, and 15 cwt. 2 qrs. 16 lb. of dry herbs were sold, realising £79 7/11, and there was in stock at the end of the year a quantity of dry material, the value of which is estimated at £20. There was a considerable amount of waste, especially at the beginning of the season, owing to the unsuitable packing of consignments and the consequent heating of material. The total amount of the donations received is £169 12/-, and the special subscriptions for 1917 amounted to £30 15/-, and the amount promised for 1918 is £38 15/-. With regard to the ordinary subscriptions paid by members, those who originally joined the United Irish Herb Association paid their subscriptions to that Association, but a sum of £22 14/- out of the moneys so paid was subsequently recovered. The subscriptions paid direct amounted to £36, and thus the total receipts, including value of stock in hand, for the year were £358 8/11. The total expenditure for the year was £365 11/-, which shows a loss of £7 2/1. The Committee regret that the working of the business of the Association has not been entirely satisfactory up to the present, for reasons which have been fully explained in a recent circular. The business arrangements have, however, now been put on a proper basis, and they have every reason to hope that, with the co-operation of the members, all will work smoothly in the future. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. A. F. Sharman-Crawford, in moving the adoption of the report and statement of accounts, said that, taking all together, he thought it was very satisfactory to find that after their first year's working they only lost £7, although they had innumerable difficulties to contend with. They had now the whole of their organisation working smoothly and the drying shed fully equipped. He knew that many of the collectors must have been disappointed at many periods during the year owing to the difficulties they had to contend with. They would have been greatly hampered were it not that Sir Bertram Windle placed the college at their disposal, and also some members of the staff gave them much valued assistance; but they, like themselves, had to learn the work. It was satisfactory for them to know that the herbs they sent over were said to be of excellent quality, which showed that their drying arrangements were good. (Applause.) They had to thank Mr. Downey, the bursar of the college, for kindly giving them his services in starting a system of accounts. There was one fact he had grasped, and that was that it was not going to be a money-making concern, and that they would have to work for patriotic reasons, for it would be a deplorable thing if this industry was allowed to go back again into the hands of foreigners. He thought that a considerable amount of work could be done by educating their children into herb-growing and collecting. Some children whom he had employed to collect gathered 4½ cwt. of foxglove, and received £2 3s. for it. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. J. F. McMullen, J.P., in seconding the adoption of the report, said he was sure that they were not in that work to make money, but to form a real service to the country. (Applause.)

Mr. E. Leigh White, in supporting the motion, said that in his district he found a general willingness to help the movement, but when spoken to, the people all gave him the same answer—that they would do their best, but that owing to the shortage of labour and the fact that all their available space was required for extra supplies of vegetables, etc., they could only grow small quantities; but if they all grew them even in small quantities it would help materially.

The Chairman said in that important matter everyone could help a little, not only those with big gardens, but also the plotholders, and in doing so they would benefit themselves. The real difficulty was to get the herbs collected, and what they must hope for was to get the school children educated into the collection of them, and also have district members who would interest themselves in the matter. In this connection he might mention that the Countess of Bandon had seen Dr. Starkie, the Resident Commissioner of Education, and that gentleman had promised to interest himself in the matter. If they got the school teachers to interest themselves in it, the interest of the children would follow. Great credit was due to Mr. Griffin, the head gardener at the college; to Mr. Downey, also connected with the college; and to Miss Walsh and Miss O'Leary, M.A., for all they had done for the Association.

Mr. E. W. Barnes gave details of some experiments that he had made.

Mrs. Broadley thought it would be a great matter if they could interest the nurserymen in the movement, owing to their expert knowledge.

Mr. Lane said they were going to arrange for a distribution of herb seeds to growers, because the Association by buying them in bulk would get them cheaper.

The Countess of Bandon appealed to the ladies in the different districts to take up the positions of district members.

The report and statement of accounts were passed unanimously, on the motion of Mr. Leigh White, seconded by Mrs. Cooke Collis. The existing Committee were re-elected.

DUBLIN CASTLE RED CROSS HOSPITAL.

The Committee of the Dublin Castle Red Cross Hospital at their meeting on the 18th inst., having been informed of the death of Mrs. Cullinan, wife of the High Sheriff of the County of Meath, and a great supporter and friend of the hospital, of which she was a member of the Committee of Management, passed a resolution of sympathy with her relatives. It was proposed by Sir John Lynch, Vice-Chairman of the Committee of Management, and seconded by Mr. William Martin Murphy, J.P., Chairman of the Finance and General Purposes Committee.

Oscar Harmen, manager of a machine tool works at Coventry, was prosecuted at that city on Saturday for food hoarding, and convicted in five cases. Four hundred pounds of tea and large quantities of sugar, sardines, butter, and hams were found in his house. He was sentenced to a month's imprisonment and fined £500, with £50 costs. The defendant swooned on hearing the sentence. Notice of appeal was given.

A "Spring Show" at the Quays.—There were more exhibits of modern agricultural machinery, implements, and dairy appliances on view recently at the Dublin quays than were ever gathered together at a Spring Show on the Ballsbridge grounds of the Royal Dublin Society—even in its palmiest days. Petrol and paraffin tractors, diggers, sowers, reapers, cultivators, and other farm labour speeders and savers were amongst the exhibits, and American and English manufacturers appeared to share the Irish orders pretty fairly between them.

ENGINEERS AND MAN-POWER.

The series of conferences which have been taking place between the Minister of National Service and representatives of other Government departments and the trade unions concluded on Friday with a final meeting of the General Conference. A series of group conferences has been held, the constitution of the groups having been settled in accordance with the wishes expressed by the General Conference itself. The Amalgamated Society of Engineers, which had been invited to the General Conference, were also invited to the conference of the Engineering Group, but did not attend. At the final meeting of the General Conference on Friday the Minister of National Service stated that he had again been asked by the Amalgamated Society of Engineers to meet representatives of that society separately from the other societies in the Engineering Group. He had adhered to the decision given at the previous meeting of the General Conference, and had declined to hold a separate meeting, but had repeated his invitation to the Amalgamated Society to join in a further conference with the Engineering Group, and to attend the General Conference held that day. Sir Auckland Geddes proposed to the conference that a further opportunity should be afforded to the Amalgamated Society to attend a meeting of the Engineering Group. The conference endorsed this proposal, and expressed the desire that, as the General Conference would not reassemble, two representatives should also be present from each of the other groups. This decision and invitation were communicated to the Amalgamated Society of Engineers and declined by them.

STATEMENT BY A.S.E.

In the course of an official statement on the man-power question, the Amalgamated Society of Engineers state that, from their point of view, the military needs of the country do not justify the Government in abrogating its pledge, wherein it is emphatically laid down that all male diluted labour liable for general military service shall first be withdrawn. It is, therefore, not a question of leaving young men in workshops and taking the older men for military service; it is a question simply of fulfilling pledges and taking the "dilutees" of military age and fitness, who, had it not been for the engineering industrial activity, would not have been in the engineering industry. The Engineers state that they cannot agree to skilled men being taken and the "dilutees" left.

It is officially announced that Sir Auckland Geddes will visit Glasgow to confer with the Clyde workers on the subject of the Man-Power Bill. The date of the visit is not yet fixed.

RAILWAYMEN AND TRIP TO THE FRONT.

The Press Association is informed that at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, held at the Grafton Hotel, Gower street, on Saturday, it was decided not to send representatives to the front, as invited by the Government. The reason given was that railwaymen in the country are already worked many hours overtime daily, and the sending away for several days of thirty-five of their number, as suggested, would throw increased work on those remaining at home. Further, they were satisfied that workers in this country were already fully cognisant of the horrors now taking place at the front.

OBITUARY.

MR. JOHN E. FERGUSON.

The death is announced of Mr. John E. Ferguson, son of Mr. George Ferguson, of Lakelands Park, Terenure. The deceased gentleman, whose family are well-known in Dublin, was at one time representative for a number of leading English drapery houses in Ireland. Four months ago, having recently returned from Canada, he sought to join the Colours. He was not successful, and offered his services to the Y.M.C.A. for work in France and was accepted. The work at a lonely advanced railhead on ground recently vacated by the Germans, proved too much for his strength, and a serious illness supervened. He arrived in Dublin last Monday, and died at his residence on Friday morning. The sympathy of many friends will go out to his family. Mr. Ferguson's two brothers are serving with the Colours.

ROMAN CATHOLIC CLERGYMAN AND THE CONVENTION.

Speaking at a meeting in Athlone on Friday night to promote the Dean Kelly Memorial, Very Rev. Canon Keane regretted the absence of the Chairman, which was worthily explained by his attendance at the National Convention. They all looked forward to the Convention with the greatest hope for good results, and he believed they would not ultimately be disappointed. Acknowledging the generosity of Protestant subscribers to the memorial, he said if the same spirit animated the rest of Ireland that prevailed in Athlone they would have very little necessity for any Convention to set up a Parliament. There they had among them many persuasions, but they all lived amicably together, helping and assisting and encouraging one another in the common affairs of life and without knowing any creed distinctions in their daily relations. Why could not that spirit prevail all over Ireland? He believed the day was coming when it would. (Applause.)

Our portrait is of Mr. Frederick Birch, of 5 Ormond road, Hornsey Rise, London, N., who writes: "I was suffering from Diseased Right Hip for 4 years, and had to go in hospital four times (once for 10 months). The disease started with inflammation in the hip, and then a bad Abscess formed. I had to have three operations performed, and after each I was laid out with weights on the legs and tubes in the hip; the pain was intense. Still there did not seem to be much improvement. Then, seeing in one of the papers a case similar to my own having been cured by 'Clarke's Blood Mixture,' I thought I would try it, and after a few bottles found a great improvement, so continued with your Mixture, and I am glad to say the wounds in my hip are completely healed and the pain is all gone; in fact, I am now quite cured."

Clarke's Blood Mixture, by reason of its remarkable blood purifying properties, can be relied upon to give speedy relief and lasting benefit in all cases of Eczema, Scrofula, Scurvy, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Boils, Pimples, Sores and Eruptions, Piles, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Gout, etc. Pleasant to take, and free from anything injurious. CHURCH OF IRELAND.

The Archbishop of Dublin gave an address yesterday morning in St. Matthias's Church to members of the Church of Ireland Men's Society. By co-operation in Christian work, he said, they would not only help their parish, but would save themselves from narrow parochialism, and so do the whole Church good. The motto of the Church of Ireland Men's Society, as would be seen, was "All in One." But its motto was not only that; it was "One in All," too, the spirit of Our Lord Jesus Christ, the great Captain of the Christian host. If the men of such societies in this parish, and in other parishes, could only fill themselves with that spirit, then, indeed, we might look to the future of the Church in this country, and to the future of the country itself, with hope and thankfulness.

Yesterday the Bishop of Derry was the preacher at the Service in the morning and again at the Evening Service in St. Matthias's Church, Dublin, and at each an appeal was made on behalf of the funds of the company of the Brigade connected with the church. The company's members are ninety in number, and they were present at both services, in charge of Captain Shannon and other officers, and seats were specially reserved for their accommodation. In the course of his sermon in the morning the Bishop mentioned that 210 past members of the company had joined the Army, and of those 25 had fallen in battle. In the evening the band of the company took the musical portion of the Service.

The weekly meeting for prayer on behalf of our nation, our soldiers, and sailors will be held this afternoon at 4.30 o'clock in St. Andrew's Parochial Hall, Suffolk street, Dublin.

DUBLIN SCHOOL MANAGERS.

At a meeting of the Dublin School Managers' Association (Church of Ireland) held at 28 Molesworth street, the following resolutions were passed unanimously:—

1. That the Dublin School Managers' Association hereby protest against the inadequacy of the grant provided under "the Duke scheme" for the teachers of the National schools in Ireland, and they demand that Irish teachers should receive grants fully equivalent to those provided for English and Scotch teachers.

2. That they strongly recommend that a committee on the lines adopted in Scotland, consisting of representatives of managers, teachers, and the Government be appointed to draw up a scale of salaries for the National school teachers.

3. That they consider that the allocation of the present grant, as set forth in the "White Paper" recently issued, is inequitable, and that it deals unfairly with the teachers of small schools, and with assistant teachers.

DUBLIN AND DISTRICT.

V.A.D. Entertainment.—There was a fairly good attendance at the entertainment given on Saturday evening in the supper room of the Mansion House, and organised by the 4th V.A.D. City of Dublin British Red Cross Society. Songs, dances, a whistling solo, a sketch, and a monologue were included in the performance, and the items were well received.

Royal Zoological Society.—The Council of the Royal Zoological Society of Ireland met on Saturday, Sir Frederick Moore, President, in the chair. Notwithstanding the uncertain weather, the Secretary was able to report that the average week's attendance was well maintained, there being a considerable increase at the gate for the past week as compared with the corresponding week last year. Visitors for the week, 1,100.

Queen's Theatre Concerts.—The series of Sunday concerts at the Queen's Theatre was continued last evening, when a large audience enjoyed an attractive programme. The items, which were agreeably varied, elicited general appreciation. Amongst the artists whose names figured on the programme were Miss Lena Munro, Miss Florrie Ryan, Mr. Walter McNally, Mr. M. A. O'Keeffe, Mr. P. M'Namara, and Master W. Rathborne.

Pillar Picture House.—The management of the Pillar Picture House will produce to-day and throughout the remainder of the week a film of exceptional interest in "The Crisis," by the popular American author, Winston Churchill. Dealing with America's great fight for humanity, with Abraham Lincoln as the central figure, and depicting with wonderful realism the battles incidental to that historic struggle, there is interwoven a charming love story. Special music will add to the attraction of the performances, which will be continuous from 1 till 11.

Fatal Wall Collapse.—At the inquest held by the City Coroner upon the body of Peter Mackey, builder and contractor, 48 Camden street, it was stated that on Friday, with Mr. Thomas Carton, a Mr. Conway, and Mr. O'Connor, he went to examine a wall of 17 Harcourt street, which was to be taken down, when a wall eight feet high forming the hall collapsed without warning. Messrs. Conway and O'Connor and the deceased man were pinned in by a heap of bricks, and Mr. Carton, who had not entered the hall, called for assistance. The injured men were taken to Jervis street hospital by ambulance. Mr. Mackey was conscious on arrival, and though an operation was performed, died in the afternoon from fracture of the skull. A verdict of accidental death was returned.

Catholic Club Concert.—The sixth Sunday concert of the season at the Catholic Club, Upper Sackville street, was given last evening, under the direction of Mr. Clarke-Barry. The programme was, as usual, a high-class and well-selected one. Mr. Clarke-Barry's own orchestra of 12 instrumentalists contributed a fine selection of music from Auber and Wagner. The principal items were excerpts from "Masaniello," "Tannhauser," and "Lohengrin," and at the close a selection from "The Yeoman of the Guard." Mr. Augustine Boland sang, in excellent style, "Tis a Charming Girl I Love," from the "Lily of Killarney," and responded to an encore with "The Ould Plaid Shawl." He also contributed two songs in Irish—"The Yellow Road" and "The Cruiskeen Lawn." Miss Evelyn Murtagh, a young soprano, had a very warm reception in two numbers, which she sang with much charm and taste. Mr. P. V. Keogh contributed a violin solo, and Mr. Alfred Higden a 'cello solo.

Wounded Soldiers Entertained.—The staffs of the Irish Land Commission and the Estates Commissioners were the hosts of a large party of wounded soldiers on Saturday afternoon at the Irish Automobile Association's Winter Club at Ballsbridge. Eighty-one men were conveyed to the club from the following hospitals:—Corrig Castle (Kingstown), Linden (Blackrock), Orthopædic (Blackrock), Eye and Ear (Dublin), King George V. (Dublin), Richmond (Dublin), and Steevens' (Dublin). A large variety of indoor games were engaged in, after which a substantial tea was served. The arrangements for the tea were carried out by a number of ladies, members of the club, and their friends. An enjoyable smoking concert followed, Sir Algernon Coote, Bart., H.M.L., presiding. The following contributed much-appreciated items to the programme:—Mrs. Scales (song), Mr. Gallagher (song), banjo and guitar quartette by Mr. Maguire and others, and humorous songs by Mr. Bridge Whelan and Mr. Evans. The latter appeared in Scottish costume, and was a great success in his Lauder selections. The whole entertainment, which was admirably arranged, was greatly enjoyed by the soldiers. The men were conveyed to and from the entertainment by the Automobile Club, who supplied their ambulance service, assisted by members' cars. Members of the staffs of the Land Commission and the Estates Commissioners looked after the games, which included billiards, cricket, cards, etc., and prizes were given to the successful competitors.

Institute of Journalists.—The annual general meeting of the Dublin and Irish Association District of the Institute of Journalists was held on Saturday at 35 Dawson street, Dublin, Mr. T. F. McGahan, J.P., presiding. Mr. T. W. Murphy referred to the death in action of Mr. Gerald Harris, who had acted as hon. secretary since 1912, and served the Institute with an energy and zeal that won the admiration of every member. A resolution of deep regret at Mr. Harris's death and of sincere sympathy with his bereaved widow was passed. The report of the Committee stated that fourteen members had been elected during the year, and mentioned that action was taken regarding the appointment of local correspondents, and also with regard to securing adequate salaries for journalists in Dublin and the provinces. The report and balance sheet were adopted. Mr. Murphy, having been declared the incoming Chairman, then presided, and returned thanks. Mr. M. J. Cleere was elected hon. secretary, Mr. J. R. Molloy hon. treasurer, and Mr. H. Honahan vice-chairman. The outgoing Chairman (Mr. McGahan) was nominated for Followship of the Institute. Mr. Stodart seconded.

ULSTER VOLUNTEER FORCE HOSPITAL.

CURATIVE WORKSHOPS OPENED.

The curative workshops, an important auxiliary of the Abercorn wing of the Ulster Volunteer Force Hospital, Belfast, were formerly opened on Saturday afternoon by Lady Cynthia Hamilton, daughter of the Duchess of Abercorn, in the presence of a large gathering. The Duchess of Abercorn was to perform the ceremony, but her Grace unexpectedly found herself unable to fulfil the engagement owing to the illness of one of her children. The opening was the first public act of Lady Cynthia Hamilton, who was accompanied by her sister, Lady Katharine.

On the motion of General Sir George Richardson, K.C.B., seconded by Dr. Howard Stevenson, the Lord Mayor took the chair.

At the request of the Chairman, Mr. F. G. MaGaire, Chairman of the Limbless Committee of the hospital, made a statement regarding the new workshops. He said that it was intended to encourage the more seriously wounded and limbless men to interest themselves in useful and productive occupations. The buildings, which had cost over £3,500, had been provided, and would, he hoped, be paid for by voluntary subscriptions from their patriotic loyal Ulster men and women. The gymnasium had been equipped by the members, staff, and friends of Messrs. Davidson and Co., Ltd., Sirocco Engineering Works, in memory of the late Captain J. S. Davidson. This gift comprises appliances for exercising every joint in the human body. A sum of £500 was being paid by the British Red Cross Society towards the equipment of the workshops, and the War Office would, he understood, give an annual grant of £500 to defray the cost of purchasing raw material, providing instructors and foremen, and running the concern generally.

Colonel Sir Robert Jones, Liverpool, pioneer and superintendent of the orthopædic branch of the R.A.M.C., delivered an interesting address, in which he expressed his unbounded admiration at the thoroughly businesslike way in which orthopædic work had been taken up by the Belfast Committee.

Lady Cynthia Hamilton then, amid applause, declared the branch opened. She said—I am very glad to come here to-day to open these fine workshops and gymnasium. I hope that the men who use them will be greatly benefited. I now declare them open, and wish every success in the work. (Applause.)

A vote of thanks was accorded Lady Hamilton on the motion of Dr. C. R. Metcalfe, United States Medical Corps, seconded by Mr. Fred Hoey, and Lady Hamilton, in acknowledging, said that the vote of thanks and the gifts of the gold key and chocolates would always remind her of her first public act. (Applause.)

A vote of thanks was also accorded to the Lord Mayor for presiding, on the motion of Lieutenant-Colonel A. B. Mitchell, seconded by Mr. S. C. Davidson.

TO THE PARLIAMENTARY ELECTORS OF MID-ARMAGH.

GENTLEMEN,—
A vacancy having been caused in the representation of this Division by the elevation of my brother, Sir John B. Lonsdale, Bart., to the Peerage, and having been selected by the Delegates of the Mid-Armagh Constitutional Association as the official Unionist Candidate, I have the honour to submit myself for the position of your Member.

As a firm supporter of Unionist principles, I shall always endeavour to work in close association with the members of the Ulster Unionist Party in defending and promoting the vital interests of Ulster.
As a native of the county, and having, with my family, a life-long association with Armagh, I am thoroughly conversant with the special interests of the Division; and, if you favour me with your confidence, you may rely upon my best services being always at the disposal of the constituency, both in and out of Parliament.

THE VALUE OF SOTOL.
Latter day medical practice insists on the necessity of clean mouths and throats—the two most vulnerable points at which so many infectious and other illnesses commence. The best protection is to thoroughly wash the mouth and throat three or four times a day by giving them a "Sotol Bath." This can be easily and conveniently done by dropping a Sotol Effervescent Tablet into a tumbler or cup half-full of comfortably warm water, which provides in a few seconds a delightfully fragrant and effectual antiseptic solution that thoroughly washes the mouth and throat, from which anything harmful is ejected. Chemists and Stores sell 40 Sotol "Baths" for 1/6 (100 for 2/9), or they may be obtained direct from the Mfrs., the Western Dental Mfg. Co., Ltd., 74 Wigmore St., London, W. 1, who also offer testing samples post free for 2d. stamps.

HAIR LOTION.
The most POWERFUL HAIR PRODUCING LOTION known is Ashmore's Pilocarpine Lotion, 2/- and 3/9 per bottle. From your own Chemist, or (post free) direct from ASHMORE'S INTERNATIONAL PHARMACY, 21 DAWSON STREET, DUBLIN.

The Issues of War.

The Russian Constituent Assembly was born on Friday and died on Saturday. Its history furnishes further proof of the truth of General Hoffman's taunt that the Bolsheviks have no use for "self-determination" in their own country. The Constituent Assembly would have been allowed to survive if it had been content to register the decrees of Messrs. Lenin and Trotzky. Every precaution was taken that it should be subservient from the very start. Maximalist troops held the streets and killed citizens at random. The Assembly was compelled to sit in the sinister company of armed sailors and the ruffians of the Red Guard. From the moment when it became evident that the elected delegates included a majority of anti-Bolsheviks the Assembly's doom was sealed. The Central Executive Committee of Soviets forced the issue immediately by producing for adoption by the delegates a "Declaration of Workmen's Rights." It declared that, since the Constituent Assembly was elected on a register which existed before the October Revolution, it had no authority to oppose the power of the Soviets. The Assembly refused to commit suicide in this abrupt fashion, whereupon the Maximalists walked out, and soon afterwards the Assembly was "dissolved by sailors." The only vote which was taken on Saturday showed that the more moderate Socialists had an almost two-to-one majority in the Assembly over the Maximalists and Social Revolutionaries of the Left. The Bolsheviks hold their authority by violence only, but, unfortunately, they seem for the moment to be in little danger of dethronement. If any organised and effective opposition to their tyranny had existed in Russia, the meeting of the Constituent Assembly should have brought it to the test. The Bolsheviks, however, have committed their latest and greatest outrage on national freedom with apparent impunity. Educated Russia is helpless, and the country's ignorant millions are utterly indifferent to the state of affairs in Petrograd.

We do not think that the German Government will be gratified by the dissolution of the Constituent Assembly, and we may believe that Austria-Hungary, where popular discontent is coming rapidly to a head, will be alarmed and disappointed by it. The latest development in Russia is likely to bring matters at Brest-Litovsk to an early decision, and to recall attention in the Allied countries from the political to the military issues of the war. The motive of the German game at Brest-Litovsk was probably two-fold. In the first place, the German Government may have been really anxious to use the Bolsheviks as catspaws for negotiations for a general peace with the Allies. In the next place, it was certainly anxious to conclude peace with Russia, and, in the process, to propitiate the more independent elements of the German democracy. The former object, if it existed, has now failed definitely. The Western Allies will refuse to have any dealings with the murderers of the free Parliament of Russia: by their own act the Bolsheviks have put themselves out of court as ambassadors of a general peace. During the last few days Germany has begun to drop the mask of civility at Brest-Litovsk. General Hoffmann's reminder to M. Trotzky that Germany is now an armed conqueror on Russian soil was as brutal as it was true. She will probably proceed to dictate her terms without further delay. Obviously she does not want to renew fighting with Russia. She needs all her troops on the western front, and is, perhaps, a little afraid of the Napoleonic precedent of 1812. If Germany now tells Messrs. Trotzky and Lenin that they must make peace immediately on her own terms, what will be their answer? They see that already the Ukraine is negotiating for peace on its own account. They know that the precarious fidelity of their followers is based wholly on the hope of an early peace. They know that, if they refuse to make peace, Germany, though she may not renew war, will be able to increase the agonies of Russia's starving people. We think that, unless they are anticipated by a counter-revolution—of which no sign is visible—the Bolsheviks will soon make peace with Germany on Germany's terms.

If Germany makes a separate peace with Russia, she may be able to augment her own food supplies, and she will be able to concentrate the full weight of her armies on the western front. Furthermore, it is now clear that militarism has triumphed at Berlin—a militarism which is still strong and highly efficient, and knows, too, that not merely its prestige, but its very existence, depends on the success of its arms within a strictly limited period of time. These, we submit, are the vital facts—the only facts which the Western Allies can afford to consider during the coming months. It is quite true that symptoms of unrest are increasing in the Central Empires; that Austria-Hungary is heartily tired of the war; that her peace-aims, as defined by Count Czernin, have ceased to be reconcilable with those of Berlin; that even in Germany hunger and disappointment are putting a severe strain on the national moral. These things are true, but for the Western Allies they are only a part, and the least important part, of the truth. There has been a dangerous tendency in these countries of late to think of peace in terms of politics rather than in terms of guns and bayonets. That blessed word "self-determination" has lulled some of us into forgetfulness of the fact that, whatever democracy may do in Germany, Austria, and Russia, the fate of human liberty is about to be decided by vast armies in France and Flanders. It is because many people, in canvassing the admirable statements of Mr. Lloyd George and President Wilson, have lost sight of this essential fact, that the Government's call for more men for the Army is now being resisted by some of the trade unions in England. We believe that the engineers and others are holding back partly, indeed, through selfishness, but largely because all the recent talk of "political arrangement" has clouded their vision of the urgent need. That need can be put in a sentence: the Germans are about to strike their last blow with desperate energy, and, if the Allies fail to meet it, they will lose the war. Every new soldier in our Army to-day is worth a thousand speeches or leading articles on the virtues of a League of Nations. The League of Nations will come if we win the war—but not otherwise. It is utter folly to suggest that the political aspect of the war has begun to overshadow its military aspect. Political developments may help us, but there is only one sure way of safety—the final destruction of Prussian militarism by the Allied Armies in the field.

A New Food Order.

The new Fish Order comes into force on Wednesday next, and will apply to Ireland. Some of the prices are in excess of those which housewives have been paying—in Dublin, at all events. Of course, in some places in Great Britain prices have reached a scandalous height. For instance, on Saturday in a thriving Cheshire town fresh herrings were 9d. each; and cod was 2s. 6d. per lb. at Kingston-on-Thames. Last week one trawler, with seventy-five boxes of fish, made over £600 for a week's fishing. A few days previously another trawler returned after a three weeks' trip with a cargo which fetched £6,100. Recent blizzards and tempests have been contributory factors to the famine prices, but these islands are not scourged normally by such extreme weather. We note that "Food Committees are given powers to vary the prices in their areas, but may not increase the maximum without the sanction of the Food Controller." We hope that the Irish Food Control Committee will take full advantage of this provision. The fishmonger knows the details to-day—how much he can charge without infringing the regulations. Wholesalers will know what the retailers can get, and prices may be regulated accordingly. If Lord Rhondda's schedule of prices be correct for Great Britain, some alteration must be made so that more trawlers can be available for this most important food requirement. Why should halibut be 3s. 3d. a lb. for cuts when the pre-war price was 8d., and haddock 1s. 10d. when it was formerly 5d.? Lemon sole could be had for 5d. to 8d., and now the list fixes 2s. a lb. Kippered herrings, once 1d. each, are now 1s. the lb. In some instances the prices fixed are in excess of what we paid here a month ago before the meat shortage and evil weather began. It is manifest that the food in our home waters is not being brought ashore in sufficient quantities. Individual enterprise can do much, while increased cold storage can assist. Other uses have been found for steam trawlers, we are well aware, but fish is as necessary as many commodities from abroad. Has the Ministry of Shipping been consulted by the Food Controller in the endeavour to release a certain type of boats for the purpose? We would put one further query—where are the vast supplies of fresh-water fish which, as we were told, would be forthcoming from rivers and lakes? The situation with regard to the national fish supply is wholly unsatisfactory.

Railway Accidents.

The lamentable loss of life through the railway accident near Carlisle on Saturday strikes home to us even amid the tragedies of war. Fortunately, we are able to believe that nobody was to blame. There was no carelessness, no mechanical defect, no mistaken signal. The accident seems to have been due to pure misadventure—a landslide caused by the recent weather. The scene was a wild district about fifteen miles south of Carlisle where the Midland line runs through tunnels and cuttings. It was in one of the latter that tons of earth were dislodged by the combined influences of severe frost and thaw, and blocked both lines. The driver of the express on approaching the cutting saw those great mounds of earth in front of him. His presence of mind in applying the brakes broke the impact; otherwise the wreck must have been still more damaging. The train was derailed, and part of it was diverted into tunnelling in the bank. Nearly all the killed and injured were travelling in the first two coaches. It is a feature of the times in which we live that the women behaved wonderfully; there was no fainting or hysteria; the grief and suffering were borne with war-time fortitude. Military officers did wonders in rescue work, and nurses took charge of urgent cases. It might have been feared that, with depleted staffs and additional demands on them, the efficiency of our railways could not have been fully maintained during the war, but, on the whole, they have stood the test with gratifying success.

SOUTH ARMAGH ELECTION.

THE CAMPAIGN OPENED.

The South Armagh election campaign bids fair to be exciting and hard fought. It was formally opened yesterday, when both the Redmondites and Sinn Feiners held meetings all over the constituency. Rain fell throughout the day. Overnight the local executive of Sinn Fein held a convention at Whitecross, and Dr. McCartan (who is at present under detention in America) was unanimously adopted as their candidate. The Sinn Fein organisation invaded the constituency from Dundalk, Armagh, and Newry. The Nationalist candidate (Mr. Patrick Donnelly, solicitor), being a local man, has his headquarters centred in Newry, where he has the assistance of several United Irish League organisers. An unpleasant and disconcerting experience awaited the Sinn Fein speakers on their arrival in Newry on Saturday night, when they found to their mortification that the opposition had all the motor-cars in the town engaged for their meetings. Consequently on Sunday morning the speakers at the first Sinn Fein meeting had to make the journey to Cloghogue with a pony and trap. A motor-car from Armagh subsequently saved the situation.

RIVAL MEETINGS.

Mr. John Boyle presided at the Sinn Feiners' meeting at Cloghogue. It was held after 11.30 Mass. As the congregation—which was a small one—left the church it was nearly smothered in Sinn Fein literature. Many, however, declined the invitation to stop and hear the Sinn Fein policy expounded. Altogether not more than 100 people were present, of whom the majority were youngsters. Dr. Dillon, who was introduced as the brother-in-law of Joe Plunkett, said that he was there to ask them to support the Sinn Fein candidate in this election.

A Voice—Who is he?

Dr. Dillon said that he was a man who was known all over the world for what he had done for Ireland. He was known as the first ambassador of the Irish Republic, Dr. McCartan. (Applause.) John Redmond and the Irish Party had abandoned the true claims of Ireland.

Mr. Philip McMahon, Dublin, also spoke.

At Newtownhamilton both sides held meetings simultaneously, and everything passed off quietly, though at times considerable apprehension prevailed on the part of the authorities lest a conflict should arise. The Sinn Fein meeting was addressed by Dr. McKee, Banbridge, Dr. McNabb, Alderman Cole, and Sean McIlroy.

Mr. J. P. O'Kane, J.P., Ballycastle, who was the principal speaker at Mr. Donnelly's meeting, asked the electors to stand by the Irish Party, who had a record of 35 years' solid work. Their opponents promised them a republic, but they did not tell them how it was to be accomplished.

Mr. J. D. Nugent, General Secretary Ancient Order of Hibernians, addressed the Nationalist meeting at Tullyvallen.

Mr. J. P. O'Kane regretted to say he was informed that a Roman Catholic curate had taken down their poster at the church gate and had put it in his pocket. He hoped that it would be explained, as he thought that the clergy were to remain out of the contest.

At Mullabawn, where the rival meetings synchronised, the authorities had an anxious time, having to draw a cordon across the road to prevent a collision between the rival gatherings. The Sinn Fein meeting was addressed by Mr. Ginnell and Mr. Peter Hughes, Dundalk, and Mr. Donnelly's speakers included Mr. E. M. Hore, barrister-at-law, and Mr. J. A. Tully, Monaghan.

NATIONALIST CANDIDATE'S RECEPTION.

At Crossmaglen Mr. Donnelly, who was supported by a big array of speakers, had a very cordial reception.

Mr. M. C. Maguire said that De Valera's Mansion House speech was a confession that Sinn Feinism was dead in America. His attack on President Wilson was the gospel of despair. Sinn Fein was dead in America, and South Armagh would ring the death-knell of it in Ireland. (Applause.) Armagh neither wanted rebellion nor republic, but to live in peace with their Protestant and Unionist fellow-countrymen, and have all classes and creeds working for the betterment of their common country. (Cheers.)

Mr. Donnelly, who had a capital reception, said he was confident that South Armagh would be true to its old allegiance to the Irish Party, and would show by the result of that contest that Sinn Feinism would not be tolerated in the constituency.

DEATH OF MRS. HENRY GUEST.

The Hon. Mrs. Henry Guest, wife of Colonel Henry Guest, M.P., was found dead in her bedroom, at her residence, Lake House, Poole, yesterday.

NATIONAL EDUCATION IN IRELAND.

The Commissioners of National Education have promoted Mr. J. C. Rogers, B.A., District Inspector of National Schools, to the position of Senior Inspector, in succession to Mr. A. J. McElwaine, retired.

COUNTY HIGH SHERIFFS.

Mr. George Richard Cooke, of Fortwilliam, Borrisoleigh, completed on Saturday the necessary declaration on his appointment as High Sheriff for the County Tipperary. He has appointed Mr. Henry Shannon his Under-Sheriff, and Mr. W. J. Shannon (Messrs. W. J. Shannon and Co., solicitors, 19 Upper Ormond quay) his Returning Officer.

Mr. Hugh T. Barrie, D.L., M.P., Manor House, Coleraine, Co. Derry, was sworn in as High Sheriff of the County of Londonderry, and Mr. Alwyn S. Craig, solicitor, Shipquay street, Londonderry, was re-sworn as Under-Sheriff for the county before Mr. E. J. Hay, Commissioner for Oaths, Coleraine, on the 19th inst. Mr. A. W. Glover, solicitor, 15 Wicklow street, Dublin, has been re-appointed the Sheriff's Returning Officer.

On the 19th inst., at Kells, before Mr. J. J. Lynch, solicitor, Commissioner for Oaths, Major Thomas G. C. Gerrard, of Gibbstown, Navan, was sworn in as High Sheriff of the County Meath, and Mr. George H. Lowry, of Kells, was re-sworn as Under-Sheriff. Mr. William H. Spence, solicitor, 11 Westmoreland street, has been appointed Returning Officer.

On Friday, before Mr. C. O. Keane, Commissioner for Oaths, Mr. Robert Gould Erskine Ellis, J.P., of Seaview, Miltown Malbay, was sworn in as High Sheriff for the County Clare; and Major F. G. Cullinan, Feighmore, Quin, was re-sworn as Under-Sheriff. The High Sheriff has appointed Mr. John Cullinan, solicitor, of Ennis, and 8 Nassau street, Dublin, as his Returning Officer.

CLONMEL RED CROSS DANCE.

In connection with the Clonmel Red Cross dance it should be stated that the organising secretaries were Mr. Morton Jackson, Powerstown, and Mr. Frank Mulcahy, of Ardfinnan Mills, who deserve every credit for making the dance such a successful function.

Queen Alexandra received at Marlborough House yesterday Miss Flora Sandes, who went to Serbia with a hospital unit early in the war, and afterwards served with the Serbian Army itself, reaching the rank of sergeant-major and being decorated by the Crown Prince.

Mr. Cooper Mitchell, the well-known entertainer, died yesterday morning at his residence in London. Deceased, who was 37, had been ill since the early part of December.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

There is rather more news to-night than usual. It is true that G.H.Q. maintains its now almost stereotyped phrase, that "there is nothing of special interest to report." People are getting a little irritated by its recurrence, especially as they know from the stories of the men on leave what a colourless expression, like "the night passed quietly," really means in terms of effort and suffering to the boys in the trenches. Even if there be nothing special to report, why cannot G.H.Q. turn on the war correspondents to write up some of the minor incidents of the combat that never ends?

Apart from other considerations, such publicity given to the work of the men abroad would stimulate the men and women at home to make the further sacrifices demanded of them. The Military Service Bill goes into Committee to-morrow, and, though it is a very short measure, it will not pass without some further sharp criticism. The way in which Mr. Smallwood's attack on the soullessness of the War Office was received the other night was symptomatic of a general feeling that our existing soldiers are not being as well handled as they ought to be.

Another factor in the case is the hushing up of the Cambrai reverse. I see that Major David Davies is going to make another effort to get at the truth. He will invite the Prime Minister to-morrow to state the nature of the inquiry, the composition of the court, and whether the findings were reported direct to the War Cabinet, or were revised by the Secretary of State for War or the War Council. He will also ask Mr. Macpherson to state the number of officers above the rank of Brigadier-General who have been permanently retired in connection with the military operations at Cambrai.

The dissolution of the Russian Constituent Assembly was not unexpected, for it has been obvious ever since its election that the Bolshevik members of Petrograd had no intention of tolerating its existence, unless it was prepared to give them a free hand. But what a comment upon all their professions of zeal for democracy and self-determination is this latest incident! Pride's Purge was nothing to it, for in that case it might, at least, be argued that the expelled members had ceased to represent the people who elected them. Lenin has no such excuse. As a despot he has out-Cromwelled Cromwell, and, without a shadow of constitutional right, violently removed from his party persons who happened not to agree with his peculiar whim.

It will be interesting to see what effect, if any, this action of the Bolsheviks will have upon public opinion in Germany. It ought to please the Pan-Germans of the Reventlow type, who would like to treat the Reichstag in the same way, but it will hardly increase the confidence of the Socialists or strengthen the prospects of a peace settlement. How can any firm agreement be reached with men who by their own action have shown that they do not represent the Russian people, as a whole, but are mere usurpers?

A failure to come to terms at Brest-Litovsk may not trouble the German Government much, but it will cause deep disappointment in Austria, who has been counting on getting rid of one of her enemies, and so being able to devote her whole strength to her Italian task, which is daily growing more difficult. Count Czernin's declaration that he wants nothing from Russia but neighbourly relations is probably a genuine reflection of the mind of his master, the Emperor Karl. As for the common people, all they want is peace and food, and relief from the burdens thrust upon them by their German taskmasters. There is no reason to doubt the truth of the statement that the recent riots in Vienna and elsewhere have had a strongly anti-German tendency.

Glasgow is to be congratulated upon having broken the Tank Bonds record by a handsome margin. Most of the large subscriptions would, no doubt, have gone into National Bonds anyhow, but there is no doubt that the Tanks have stimulated the interest of the smaller investors in a very satisfactory way, with the result that for some weeks the sales of Bonds have been almost up to the highest expectations of the Chancellor. The question remains whether the enthusiasm will be kept up, or whether it will not be necessary to give the small investor some further inducement to divert his surplus earnings from extravagant consumption into provident savings.

I see that the Treasury and the Ministry of Reconstruction have set up a joint committee consisting of leading experts to consider the questions of post-war finance, including currency and foreign exchanges. Among other things they will have to consider whether Treasury notes shall be retained, or whether we are to return to what the Americans call "hard money." It might be wise for the Committee to consider whether, even now, there ought not to be a retrenchment of the quantity of Treasury notes allowed to be in circulation. Many experts are of opinion that the issue has been unduly large, and is one of the factors which have caused the great rise in prices.

It is understood that the Speaker's decision in regard to Irish Redistribution has now been sent in to the Prime Minister. Its publication in the form of a White Paper may, therefore, be looked for in the course of the next few days. It is believed that the disagreements between the Unionist and Nationalist members of the Committee related to questions affecting Tyrone and Fermanagh, and Belfast and Antrim, and that in regard to the large towns, at any rate, particularly as to Belfast, the Nationalists offered to accept the principle of proportional representation. It is believed, however, that the Unionists could not see their way to accept. It will be interesting if events prove that the Speaker has been called on to decide as to proportional representation. Whatever it is, the British members of the House of Commons are likely to accept the Speaker's decision with practical unanimity. But the Nationalists, who probably have an inkling of what the decision will be, are already talking of a protest if it is not in their favour.

Following the resignation of Sir Glen West from the Ministry of Munitions, a rumour was current in political circles to-night that Major Downie will cease to hold the Directorship of Munitions in Ireland.

Mr. Field will ask the Minister of Munitions on Tuesday whether it is proposed to use the resources of contractors who have suitable factories and staffs for the construction of aeroplane parts and other war material in Dublin and the rest of Ireland.

THE D.S.O.

Among the officers who have received the D.S.O. in the list of New Year's Honours is Major R. O'Donoghue, A.S.C., son of Mr. Cooper O'Donoghue, Oreland, Limerick. He has been serving in France since 1914.

THE MILITARY CROSS.

Captain J. L. Chalmers, Royal Irish Fusiliers, has been awarded the Military Cross for gallantry in the field. Captain Chalmers joined the 10th (Irish) Division at the outbreak of the war, and saw service with that Division in Gallipoli. He was wounded at Suvla Bay after the capture of Chocolate Hill. For the last two years Captain Chalmers has been attached to a battalion in France, where he was wounded at the battle of the Somme. His elder brother, Second Lieutenant W. Hamish Chalmers, of the Indian Army, was killed in action in Persia. Captain Chalmers is a brother of Mrs. James Gray Kyd, of 14 Temple Villas, Palmerston road, Dublin.

Major William M'Cauley, R.F.A., who is in his 24th year, has been awarded a bar to the Military Cross. He is a son of Mr. William M'Cauley, Superintendent Clerk, Record Office, Woolwich, and formerly of Derry, and is a nephew of Miss E. F. Heaney, N.T., Waterside, Derry.

Colonel C. A. Court Repington, C.M.G., has (says the Press Association) resigned his position as Military Correspondent of The Times.

THE "IRISH TIMES" RED CROSS FUND.

LETTER FROM DR. LUMSDEN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I hear that the Irish Times Red Cross Fund has now passed £50,000—the sum originally asked for—and I feel I must send you my hearty congratulations on your splendid accomplishment. I know that the Joint Societies very thoroughly appreciate the service you have rendered to the Red Cross cause, and the very substantial sum that your appeal has been the means of securing.

Having now had the opportunity of seeing the work of the Red Cross in France from the firing line down to the base, I am more than ever satisfied of the excellence of the work being done, and I cannot express in adequate terms my admiration of the resource, the thoroughness, the business-like methods, and helpfulness generally, and, in addition, that human touch which oftentimes is such an important factor in relieving the sufferings and saving the lives of our gallant fellow-countrymen.

Your subscribers may rest assured that their money will be wisely and economically spent, and that their offering to the Red Cross will be the means, in addition to supplying the material needs, of carrying many a message of comfort to our wounded.

Without your powerful aid and co-operation, this substantial and magnificent sum certainly could not have been obtained in Ireland, and I think you are to be congratulated for bringing out in such a remarkable and practical fashion the kindly and sympathetic interest in the Red Cross cause which exists in the hearts of the Irish people.

The success which has attended the appeals to commerce, the professions, and sport has been of a striking character, and the handsome contribution must, I think, be regarded as a practical message to our fighting forces that the sympathy of the country is with them, and that it is an expression of civilian effort and determination to win the war.

To Sir John Arnott, our Trustee, to Lady Arnott, and her Committee, to our County Directors, and the Dublin Chamber of Commerce we must feel deeply indebted for their splendid help.—Yours, etc.,

J. LUMSDEN,
Director-in-Chief and Vice-Chairman, Joint V.A.D. Committee for Ireland (Excluding Ulster).

B.E.F., France, January 18th, 1918.

FOOD SUPPLIES.

FIXED PRICES FOR FISH.

The Ministry of Food has issued an Order, which applies to Ireland, fixing the maximum retail prices of fish. It stipulates that no person shall, after the 23rd inst., directly or indirectly sell or offer or expose for sale or offer to buy any fish at prices exceeding the maximum prices provided by the Order. A Food Committee may from time to time by resolution vary, for fish sold by retail within their area, the maximum prices, but such resolution must be reported to the Food Controller within seven days, and any resolution increasing the maximum price cannot come into operation until sanctioned by the Food Controller.

Where a maximum price is for the time being prescribed for a cut such price shall apply only to the sale of a portion of the fish not exceeding half of the whole fish, and not including any part of the head. Where a maximum price is for the time being prescribed for a headed fish, such price shall apply only to the sale of a headed and gutted fish. The maximum price for the time being prescribed for a whole fish shall apply to all sales of the fish, headed or not, gutted or ungutted, or any part of the fish except sales to which a maximum price for a cut or for a headed fish applies. In calculating the price on the sale of a fish, or a portion of a fish, any broken halfpenny shall count as a halfpenny. A person may sell fish at a price per fish or per piece so long as the maximum price therefor is not exceeded and provided he weighs the fish or piece if so required by the buyer. No additional charge may be made for bags or other packages or for giving credit or making delivery.

As regards contract prices, it is provided that where the Food Controller is of opinion that the price payable under any contract for the sale of fish subsisting at the date of the Order or any notice under the Order is such that it cannot at the price for the time being permitted be sold by retail at a reasonable profit, the Food Controller may if he thinks fit cancel such contract or modify its terms. The Order also requires every retailer to post conspicuously in his shop a notice plainly showing the maximum prices.

SEIZURES OF BUTTER.

There was an appreciable increase in the margarine supplies available in Dublin on Saturday, but the butter supply, despite the embargo on export, showed no noticeable improvement.

A large consignment of butter from the West of Ireland which was seized by the police was sent to Dublin by direction of the Food Controller, and removed from a railway depôt at the North Wall on Saturday morning to the premises of a wholesale firm. This action was taken owing to allegations that it was being withheld for shipment.

The examination of parcels seized in course of post and suspected of containing butter was continued on Saturday by representatives of the Food Control Committee at the stores of Messrs. Carton Bros., Dublin. Of 300 parcels examined, 173 contained butter. A further batch of parcels has been seized and is awaiting inspection.

The continued shortage of butter is alleged to be due to some creameries retaining their supplies for the purpose of cheese-making with a view to export.

Seizures in Belfast.—The Belfast Post Office officials have during the past few days intercepted many small butter consignments posted by private individuals to friends and relatives in Great Britain, and have handed them over to the local receiving agent appointed by the Food Control Committee of Ireland, who is Mr. D. Armstrong, Superintendent of Markets, Belfast. On Saturday Mr. Armstrong dealt with forty-one "suspected" parcels, and, although in many cases the butter was skilfully disguised, it did not escape detection. The butter confiscated is disposed of by the agent for local distribution. A rigid system of inspection has also been established at the port of Belfast.

A parcel marked "Glass, with care," and consigned to a cross-Channel destination, on being opened in Londonderry Post Office, was found to be a bottle containing butter. It was seized.

The Londonderry Workhouse Master on Saturday reported to the Guardians that the institution, in which butter is excluded from all rations, had been without margarine for the past couple of weeks. He would "carry on" with dry bread until he got a supply.

Only a few bags of potatoes were brought into the Athlone market on Saturday. Some farmers, it is alleged, are holding back supplies for a rise on the present price of 5s. 6d. a cwt.

Clonmel Town Tenants' League have addressed an appeal to the Mayor to call a public meeting to raise funds for the distressed poor of the town. A dance held in the courthouse by the organisers of the Red Cross ball, to provide money to relieve the poor of the town, was very successful. The St. Vincent de Paul Society is doing good work to relieve necessitous cases.

NATIONAL FOOD ECONOMY LEAGUE.

The Committee of the National Food Economy League has decided to dissolve next March, owing to its having failed to obtain any recognition or encouragement from the Ministry of Food. The League, which sought no financial support from the Government, has been in existence nearly three years, during which over three-quarters of a million of its publications have been sold, and between two and three thousand demonstrations given in London and the provinces.

FROM "THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY.

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PROPRIETORS OF THE TIMES.)

THE IRISH CONVENTION.

The latest reports from Ireland, says The Times, are a trifle more optimistic, but no substantial grounds for optimism are apparent. Presumably some temporary diversion of the Convention to relatively unimportant business has, for the moment, eased the strain which was felt during the early part of last week. But the main problem remains, and must be faced within the next few days—it is to be hoped, with the aid of stronger forces than the Convention itself can muster. It is no disparagement of the work of the Convention, which unquestionably represents the right line of approach to the Irish question, that it suffered, from the start, from a certain weakness of individual statesmanship. Its members are, all of them, Irishmen, and if it stops short of a settlement, the result will be demonstrably due to Irish disunion, and not to English interference. Englishmen are entitled, nevertheless, to insist, at this crisis in the war, that all the best leadership in Ireland should be brought to bear upon the problem, at whatever point the Convention leaves it, in a final effort at settlement. The consequences all over the world are too far-reaching to admit of failure.

INVERTED AUTOCRACY.

Russia, long ruled by autocratic Tsars, says The Times, who governed on occasion by means of arbitrary violence, is now in the grip of an ultra-revolutionary oligarchy, to whose members violence would seem to be as much an end as a means. The Constituent Assembly which, despite vices of constitution, was in theory the supreme authority for the settlement of the future form of the State, has been forcibly dissolved by Bolshevist sailors. Processions organised to celebrate the auspicious day of its assembling were received by the Bolshevist "Red Guards" with rifle and machine gun fire. In 1905, when the Imperial troops sabred the people assembled before the Winter Palace, a cry of horrified protest was raised in all democratic countries. To-day, when this example is emulated by the "Commissioners of the People," will their action be approved and condoned by their sympathisers abroad? In revolutionary theory their conduct is, doubtless, explicable. The Bolshevists, whose avowed and conscious aim is to turn the world upside down, to overthrow all Governments and non-Bolshevist social orders, abhor even so mild a rival to their self-arrogated authority as a Constituent Assembly of revolutionaries in which they have no majority. Consequently, they fire upon its supporters, and employ armed sailors to sweep it away. The end of the struggle is not yet, but its course contains an object lesson for all orderly democracies of the perils to which freedom may be exposed when once its custodians forsake the path of law.

STRIKES IN VIENNA.

The Hague Correspondent of The Times telegraphs:—Telegrams and newspapers from Germany and Austria, which are arriving here after long delay owing to snowstorms, show that the economic and political crisis in Austria-Hungary is growing steadily more acute. Both telegrams and papers have been heavily censored, but it is possible to read through the censored passages. Local reductions of the flour ration resulted at the beginning of the week in the outbreak of strikes, especially in Wiener Neustadt, south of Vienna, where on Monday the whole staff of the Daimler motor works went on strike, and were followed by big locomotive, radiator, and aeroplane factories, and all the workers in Rath's munition factory. On Tuesday the strike was still spreading, and there had been some rioting. On Wednesday morning the Vienna Arbeiter Zeitung published a flaming appeal of the German Labour Party in Austria and the Socialist Deputies' Club to the workmen and women of Austria to refuse to allow the war to continue, "simply for the purpose of extending the power of Germany and Austria-Hungary over foreign lands." An independent and extremely well-informed observer, who reached Holland from Vienna via Germany this week, informed me that the food situation in Vienna is extremely grave, and accompanied by widespread political disturbances. He added: "The key of the situation is at Brest-Litovsk, for, if the negotiations there break down, something serious will certainly happen, though precisely what shape events will take I will not prophesy. But the food difficulties are the main feature. I feel convinced that Count Czernin must, and will, do anything to prevent the negotiations from being broken off in view of the situation at home."

THE LABOUR PARTY CONFERENCE.

The Labour Party, says The Times, holds its seventeenth annual conference at Nottingham this week, and the fact that it has never in the previous sixteen years had so many subjects of general interest and public importance to discuss testifies to the enlarged share of influence and activity that has been thrust upon the party by the war. This year several motions have again been put down on the agenda directly challenging the policy and demanding the withdrawal of Labour members from the Government. These motions emanate from local bodies, and the source of their inspiration is well known. The ostensible reason for withdrawing from the Government is the furtherance of sectional interests in preference to national interests. It is not very lofty ground to take, but the real ground is still lower. It is that desire to hamper the Government in the prosecution of the war which has been consistently displayed in the same quarters, and is highly appreciated in Berlin. What will happen this week nobody knows. The proceedings at the conference have a way of departing suddenly and widely from the agenda, and these motions may not be taken at all. The subject may be disposed of in the report of the Executive Committee, or otherwise. But, however this may be, no one expects the conference to stultify itself by reversing its previous repeated vote.

THE FUTURE OF EMBASSIES.

A Correspondent writes to The Times to-day, under the signature "Oxon":—The newspapers speak of Embassies likely to be vacant. Does not this offer a favourable opportunity for doing away with them altogether, in agreement, of course, with those countries with which we now exchange Embassies? An Ambassador is a pompous and expensive form of envoy. His one exceptional privilege, so far as I know, is the right to demand a personal audience of the Sovereign to whom he is accredited. What this is practically worth we see from Mr. Gerard's narrative of his vain efforts to obtain an audience of the Emperor William during this war. Moreover, the most important Sovereigns, with regard to whom this access might be of some slight advantage, are the two Emperors with whom we are fighting, and with whom we can never resume Ambassadorial relations, which imply something kindly and personal. But an envoy in these days wants to see the Foreign Secretary, not the Sovereign, and, indeed, the Minister of a great State at a critical juncture would have quite as much weight and right of access as an Ambassador. An Ambassador requires a very large salary, and yet can rarely live on it, as so much splendour is expected of him. And he is apt to be punctilious and exacting about his rights and precedence, matters which are sinking into the background. He is, indeed, the survival of a dead past. Convenience and economy both dictate the abolition of these functionaries, and the relations of the countries would not suffer.

POPE'S NEXT MOVE.

The Washington correspondent of the Evening Post (who is usually well informed) states that Senator Lewis has announced his intention to defer discussion of his resolution proposing an endorsement of the President's peace programme, because he has reason to know that Berlin expects to withdraw her peace proposals to the Bolsheviks, and to make new proposals, but proposals which will be applicable, not only to Russia, but to all her opponents.

Senator Lewis also had information that the Pope is planning another effort towards peace.

Meanwhile the Austrian Socialist party has passed a resolution declaring that Mr. Lloyd George's speech and President Wilson's message form a possible basis for peace negotiations.

These utterances, together with the disturbances in Vienna and other parts of Austria, increase the conviction long held in well-informed Swiss circles that Austrian military power will collapse owing to domestic troubles long before Germany's resistance is broken.

WESTERN FRONT

SUCCESSFUL RAID AT HARGICOURT.

OSTEND BOMBARDED FROM THE SEA.

With the exception of a raid by our troops against enemy trenches east of Hargicourt, which resulted in the taking of some prisoners, there was little else to report during the week-end.

On the French front there was artillery activity at various points.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.

Saturday, 10.44 a.m.—There is nothing of interest to report on the British front.

8.40 p.m.—The enemy made several unsuccessful attempts to raid our trenches near Neuve Chappelle and south of Lens last night and early this morning. Apart from this there is nothing of interest to report.

Aviation.—On the 18th inst., although the sky was overcast all day, with rain at intervals, a certain amount of flying took place, chiefly consisting of observation for the artillery. Bombs were dropped and many rounds fired from low heights at numerous targets, including a long column, in which many casualties were seen to be caused. Three hostile machines were brought down by aeroplanes and one by our infantry, while another was driven down out of control by anti-aircraft gunfire. One of our machines is missing.

Sunday, 10.27 a.m.—The night passed quietly, and there is nothing of special interest to report.

Sunday, 9.22 p.m.—Last night an enemy raid south-east of Graincourt was repulsed. Early this morning our troops raided the enemy trenches east of Hargicourt, bringing back prisoners. Hostile artillery has been active to-day north-east of Ypres and in the vicinity of Neuve Chapelle and Lens.

Aviation.—On the 19th good visibility enabled a great many hostile batteries to be engaged successfully by our artillery with observation from the air. Over three hundred bombs were dropped during the day on miscellaneous targets, including a large ammunition dump near Courtrai, and several thousands of rounds fired at the enemy in their trenches by our low-flying aeroplanes. Five hostile machines were brought down and three driven down out of control. Four of our machines are missing.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

Saturday Afternoon.—During the night there was a rather lively artillery action in Champagne, in the Auberives region, and on the right bank of the Meuse to the north of Bezonvaux.

Saturday Night.—There is nothing to report except artillery activity to the north of the Chemin des Dames and on the left bank of the Meuse.

Sunday Afternoon.—We easily repelled two enemy raids, the one in the region south-east of St. Quentin, the other north of Courtecon. There was an intermittent cannonade on the rest of the front.

Sunday Night.—North-west of Rheims and on the right bank of the Meuse, the artillery duel was fairly lively. An enemy coup de main on our small posts in the Louvre region failed. North of St. Mihiel our patrols brought back prisoners.

Aviation.—In the course of yesterday our air forces fought a number of aerial engagements. Six German machines were destroyed, and two others fell within their own lines, seriously damaged.

GERMAN OFFICIAL.

Saturday Afternoon.—There were lively artillery duels on the salient north-east of Ypres, on the south bank of the Scarpe, and in the neighbourhood of Mouvres. On many parts of the rest of the front, especially on both sides of the Meuse, firing activity increased in violence. North of Bezonvaux storming troops took prisoners out of the French lines.

Saturday Night.—There was lively artillery activity in the Ypres salient.

Sunday Afternoon.—Ostend has been bombarded from the sea.

Violent artillery duels continued in the salient north-east of Ypres until late in the night. On both sides of the Lys, at La Bassee Canal, as well as between Lens and St. Quentin, fighting activity increased. The English fire was directed with special intensity throughout the day on our positions south of the Scarpe. The French artillery was lively only in a few sectors. There was at times an increase in the fighting in the Meuse region, as well as north and south of the Rhine-Marne Canal.

ITALIAN FRONT.

BIG ENEMY ATTACK AT CAPO SILE.

HELD UP BY ARTILLERY.

Italian Official.—During the night of the 17th-18th January the enemy, on a wide front, again attempted an attack on our bridge-head at Capo Sile. It was arrested by the artillery, which promptly intervened, and the few hostile groups of men who succeeded in reaching our wire were destroyed by machine-gun and rifle fire.

During the day yesterday the artillery was more active on both banks of the Brenta and in the eastern sector of Monfenera. Our reconnoitring parties drove back small enemy posts and captured material on the Asiago Plateau.

Sunday.—There were patrol engagements in the Daone valley (Giudicaria). At Sano (south-west of Mori) one of our storming parties carried out a successful coup de main in the enemy line, bringing back one officer and ten other ranks, who were made prisoners. There were brief but intense artillery duels in the Mount Asolone region.

British batteries caused a big fire to break out within the enemy's lines to the south of Sernaglia. Along the Piave our artillery effectually replied to the enemy's, which were more lively between Nervesa and Maserada, and dispersed wagon transport and enemy patrols in the neighbourhood of St. Abuzzo and La Grave.

British Official.—General Plumer reports under Saturday's date:—The weather lately has been bad. Flying has only been possible on two days during the past week. On these days, however, we destroyed six enemy machines without any loss to ourselves. Active artillery and patrol work continues daily.

ADVANCE IN PALESTINE.

British Official.—On January 18th our line was carried forward to a maximum depth of one mile on a four-mile front in the neighbourhood of Durah, twelve miles north of Jerusalem. Some prisoners were captured. In aerial fighting on January 17, one enemy aeroplane was shot down and two others driven down out of control. On January 18th our aeroplanes dropped 80 bombs on a railway station west of Samaria and on camps in the neighbourhood. One enemy aeroplane was shot down.

GERMANY AND ANNEXATIONS.

AGREEMENT BETWEEN SOLDIERS AND CIVILIANS.

The Tagliche Rundschau says a Reuter telegram, dated January 19th, learns that a complete agreement has been reached in the conferences between the Higher Army Command and the Chancellor in respect of the regulation of all Eastern questions. These are to be regarded as a united whole, and, therefore, the Lithuanian, Courland, and Polish questions are to be considered as all connected with one another. This position, the paper remarks, gives a united Austro-German front against Russia. The situation is based on the present representative bodies in Lithuania, Courland, and Poland, whose unanimous declarations can be expanded, but not cancelled. There was, likewise, a full understanding that effective safeguards must be created in the West.

The Leipzig Volkszeitung says:—The issue of the Government crisis appears to be victory for the Kuehlmanners in form, but for the Pan-Germans in fact. Frontier rectifications are to be striven after, and, while preserving in appearance the principle of the self-determination of peoples, the Government has not entirely, but in its essential point, submitted to the Pan-German demands. The same paper cites the Leipzig Neueste Nachrichten, as reporting that the political leaders have given abundant assurances to the effectual after Russia's (unsuccessful) ultimatum to England and France they feel no obligation to continue to apply the formula of no annexations and no indemnities in the West, but rather will go in the direction of giving the military an entirely free hand for their own decisions.

MACEDONIAN FRONT.

French Official.—Saturday.—There were artillery duels in the region of Monastir and in the Cerna bend, where our fire caused a fire in a dump. British airmen carried out several raids on the Doiran railway and in the Petric-Seres region.

German Official.—In the Cerna bend our hill position north-east of Paralovo was subjected throughout the day to artillery and mine firing.

British Official.—On January 11th we raided the enemy's outpost line on the Doiran front, and inflicted casualties. Our aeroplanes have bombed Cestovo Station, north-west of Lake Doiran, and other objectives.

50 FLEET-STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

There is rather more news to-night than in the last few days, but it is not of a kind to make one feel more hopeful about the future. G.H.Q. maintains its now almost stereotyped phrase, that "there is nothing of special interest to report," and you are hearty congratulations on your splendid accomplishment. I know that the Joint Societies very thoroughly appreciate the service you have rendered to the Red Cross cause, and the very substantial sum that your appeal has been the means of securing.

Having now had the opportunity of seeing the work of the Red Cross in France from the firing line down to the base, I am more than ever astonished of the excellence of the work being done, and I cannot express in adequate terms my admiration of the resources, the thoroughness, the business-like methods, and hard labour generally, and, in addition, that human touch which oftentimes is such an important factor in relieving the sufferings and saving the lives of our gallant fellow-countrymen.

Your subscribers may rest assured that their money will be wisely and economically spent, and that their offering to the Red Cross will be the means, in addition to supplying the material needs, of carrying many a message of comfort to our wounded.

Without your powerful aid and co-operation, no substantial and magnificent sum certainly could not have been obtained in Ireland, and I think you are to be congratulated for bringing out in such a remarkable and practical fashion the kindly and sympathetic interest in the Red Cross cause which exists in the hearts of the Irish people.

The interests which has attended the appeals in commerce, the professions, and sport has been of a striking character, and the handsome contribution must, I think, be regarded as a practical pledge to the fighting forces that the sympathy of the country is with them, and that it is an expression of civilian effort and determination to win the war.

Sir Bertram Arnott, our Trustee, to Lady Arnott, and her Committee, to our County Directors, and the Dublin Chamber of Commerce we must feel deeply indebted for their splendid help. Yours, etc.,

J. LUMSDEN,

SEIZURES OF BUTTER.

There was an appreciable increase in the margarine supplies available in Dublin on Saturday, but no additional supply, despite the embargo on export, showed no improvement.

A large consignment of butter from the West of Ireland which was seized by the police was sent to Dublin by direction of the Food Controller, and removed from a railway depot at Broadstone on Saturday morning to the premises of a wholesale firm. The action was taken owing to allegations that it was being withheld from the market.

The examination of parcels sent in course of post and suspected of containing butter was continued on Saturday by representatives of the Food Control Committee, at the premises of the Carton Bros., Dublin. Of 300 parcels examined, 125 were found to contain butter. A further batch of parcels has been seized and is awaiting inspection. As the total shortage of butter is alleged to be large in some creameries retaining their supplies for the purpose of cheese-making with a view to export.

THE "IRISH TIMES" RED CROSS FUND.

LETTER FROM DR. LUMSDEN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I hear that the Irish Times Red Cross Fund has now passed £50,000—the sum originally asked for—and I feel I must send you my hearty congratulations on your splendid accomplishment. FOOD SUPPLIES.

FIXED PRICES FOR FISH.

The Ministry of Food has issued an Order, which applies to Ireland, fixing the maximum retail prices of fish. It stipulates that no person shall, after the 25rd inst., directly or indirectly sell or offer or expose for sale or agree to buy any fish at prices exceeding the maximum prices provided by the Order. A Food Committee may from time to time by resolution fix the maximum prices for fish sold by retail within their area, the maximum prices not to exceed those reported to the Food Controller within one month after any resolution increasing the prices has been so reported, unless operation is sanctioned by the Food Controller.

The maximum price to be fixed by the Committee shall apply only to the sale of a portion of the fish not exceeding half of the whole fish, and not including any offal of the head. Where a maximum price is for the time being prescribed for a whole fish such price shall apply only to the sale of a head or offal of such fish. The maximum price for the time being prescribed for a whole fish shall apply to all sales of the fish, head or offal or any part of the fish except sales to which a maximum price is for the time being prescribed for a portion of a whole fish applies. As regards consignments, it is provided that where the Food Controller is of opinion that the price payable under any contract for the sale of fish between the date of the Order and any notice under the Order is such that the price for the time being permitted to be sold by reason of the Food Controller may if he thinks fit direct that the price payable under the contract shall be reduced to such price as may be specified in the direction.

THE FUTURE OF EMBASSIES.

A Correspondent writes to The Times to-day, under the signature "Odiom"—The newspapers speak of Embassies likely to be vacant. Does not this offer a desirable opportunity for doing away with them altogether, in agreement, of course, with those countries with which we now exchange Embassies? An Ambassador is a pompous and expensive form of envoy. His one exceptional privilege, so far as I know, is the right to demand a personal audience of the Sovereign to whom he is accredited. What this is practically worth we see from Mr. Gerard's narrative of his vain efforts to obtain an audience of the Emperor William during this war. Moreover, this most important Sovereigns, with regard to whom a first-class mission is necessary for the purpose of ordinary business, are very few indeed. They are the two Emperors with whom we are fighting, and with whom we can never resume Ambassadorial relations, a third simply something kindly and personal. But an envoy is there these days wants to see the Foreign Secretary, not the Sovereign, and, indeed, the Minister of a great State at a critical juncture would have quite as much weight and right of access as an Ambassador. An Ambassador requires a very large staff, and yet can rarely live on it, as so much splendour is expected of him. And he is apt to be punctilious and exacting about his rights and precedence, matters which are sinking into the background. He is, indeed, the survival of a dead past. Convenience and economy both dictate the abolition of these functionaries, and the relations of the countries would not suffer.

STRIKES IN VIENNA.

The Hague Correspondent of The Times telegraphs:—Telegrams and newspapers from Germany and Austria, which are arriving here after long delay, bring no announcements, show that the economic and political crisis in Austria-Hungary is growing steadily more acute. Both telegrams and papers have been heavily censored, but it is possible to read through the censored passages. The reduction of the flour ration resulted at the beginning of January in the outbreak of strikes, especially in Wiener Neustadt, south, of Vienna, where on Monday the whole staff of the Daimler motor works went on strike, followed by big locomotive, radiator, and aeroplane engine factories, all the workers in Rath's munition factory. On Tuesday the strike was still spreading, and there had been some riots in Vienna. On Wednesday morning the Vienna Arbeiter Zeitung published a flaming appeal of the German Labour-Party in Austria and the Socialist Deputies' Club to the workmen and women of Austria to refuse to allow the war to continue, and to apply for the purpose of extending the power of German influence in Hungary over foreign lands." An independent and extremely well-informed observer, who reached Holland from Vienna on Germany this week, informed me that the food situation in Vienna is extremely grave, and accompanied by widespread political disturbances. He added: "The key of the situation is at Brest-Litovsk, for, if the negotiations there break down, something serious will certainly happen, though precisely what shape events will take I will not prophesy. But the food difficulties are the main feature. I feel convinced that Count Czernin must, and will, do anything to prevent the negotiations from being broken off in view the situation at home."

THE LABOUR PARTY CONFERENCE.

The Labour Party, says The Times, holds its seventeenth annual conference at Nottingham this week, and the fact that it has been in the previous sixteen years had so many subjects of general interest and public importance to discuss testifies to the enlarged share of influence and authority which has been thrust upon the party by the war. This year several motions have again been put down on the agenda directly challenging the policy and demanding the withdrawal of Labour members from the Government. Whether resolutions emanate from local bodies, and the source of their inspiration is well known. The ostensible reason for withdrawing from the Government is the furtherance of sectional interests in preference to national interests. It is not very lofty ground to take, but the real ground is still further, that desire to hamper the Government in the prosecution of the war which has been consistently displayed in the same quarters, and is highly appreciated in Berlin. What will happen this week nobody knows. The proceedings at the conference have a way of departing suddenly and widely from the agenda, and these motions may not be taken at all. The subject may be disposed of at the meeting of the Executive Committee, or otherwise. But, however this may be, no one expects the conference to stultify itself by reversing its previous repeated vote.

SENDING TO AUSTRIA.

Sir,—I hear that the Joint Societies very thoroughly appreciate the service you have rendered to the Red Cross cause, and the very substantial sum that your appeal has been the means of securing.

Having now had the opportunity of seeing the work of the Red Cross in France from the firing line down to the base, I am more than ever astonished of the excellence of the work being done, and I cannot express in adequate terms my admiration of the resources, the thoroughness, the business-like methods, and hard labour generally, and, in addition, that human touch which oftentimes is such an important factor in relieving the sufferings and saving the lives of our gallant fellow-countrymen.

B.E.F., France, January 28th, 1918.

FROM "THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY.

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PROPRIETORS OF THE TIMES.)

THE IRISH CONVENTION.

The latest reports from Ireland, says The Times, are a trifle more optimistic, but no substantial grounds for optimism are apparent. Presumably some temporary diversion of the Convention to relatively unimportant business has, for the moment, eased the strain which was felt during the early part of last week. But the main problem remains, and must be faced within the next few days—it is to be hoped, with the aid of stronger forces than the Convention itself can muster. It is no disparagement of the work of the Convention, which unquestionably represents the right line of approach to the Irish question, that it suffered, from the start, from a certain weakness of individual statesmanship. Its members are, all of them, Irishmen, and if it stops short of a settlement, the result will be demonstrably due to Irish dissension, and not to English interference. Englishmen are entitled, nevertheless, to insist, at this crisis in the war, that all the best leadership in Ireland should be brought to bear upon the problem, at last, if ever point the Convention leaves it, in a final effort at settlement. The consequences all over the world are too far-reaching to admit of failure.

INVERTED AUTOCRACY.

Russia, long ruled by autocratic Tsars, says The Times, who governed on occasion by means of arbitrary violence, is in the grip of an ultra-revolutionary oligarchy, to whom lawless violence would seem to be as much an end as a means. The Constituent Assembly which, despite vices of constitution, was in theory the supreme authority for the settlement of the future form of the State, has been forcibly dissolved by Bolshevist sailors. Processions organised to celebrate the auspicious day of its assembling were received by the Bolshevist "Red Guards" with rifle and machine gun fire. In 1905, when the Imperial troops raised the people assembled before the Winter Palace a cry of horrified protest was raised in all democratic countries. To-day, when this example is emulated by the "Commissaries of the People," will their action be approved and condoned by their sympathisers abroad? In revolutionary theory their conduct is, doubtless, explicable. The Bolsheviks, whose avowed and conscious aim is to turn the world upside down, to overthrow all Governments and non-Bolshevist social orders, abhor even so mild a rival to their self-arrogated authority as a Constituent Assembly of revolutionaries in which they have no majority. Consequently, they fire upon its supporters, and employ armed sailors to sweep it away. The end of the struggle is not yet, but its course contains an object lesson for all orderly democracies of the perils to which freedom may be exposed when once its custodians forsake the path of law.

THE FUTURE OF EMBASSIES.

A Correspondent writes to The Times to-day, under the signature "Odiom"—The newspapers speak of Embassies likely to be vacant. Does not this offer a desirable opportunity for doing away with them altogether, in agreement, of course, with those countries with which we now exchange Embassies? An Ambassador is a pompous and expensive form of envoy. His one exceptional privilege, so far as I know, is the right to demand a personal audience of the Sovereign to whom he is accredited. And he is apt to be punctilious and exacting about his rights and precedence, matters which are sinking into the background. He is, indeed, the survival of a dead past. Convenience and economy both dictate the abolition of these functionaries, and the relations of the countries would not suffer.

POPE'S NEXT MOVE.

The Washington correspondent of the Evening Post (who is usually well informed) states that Senator Lewis has announced his intention to defer discussion of his resolution proposing an endorsement of the President's peace programme, because he has reason to know that Berlin expects to withdraw her peace proposals to the Bolsheviks, and to make new proposals, but proposals which will be acceptable, not only to Russia, but to all her opponents.

Senator Lewis also had information that the Pope is planning another effort towards peace.

Meanwhile the Austrian Socialist party has passed a resolution declaring that Mr. Lloyd George's speech and President Wilson's message form a possible basis for peace negotiations.

These utterances, together with the disturbances in Vienna and other parts of Austria, increase the conviction long held in well-informed Swiss circles that Austrian military power will collapse owing to domestic troubles long before Germany's resistance is broken.

WESTERN FRONT

SUCCESSFUL RAID AT HARGICOURT.

OSTEND BOMBARDED FROM THE SEA.

With the exception of a raid by our troops against enemy trenches east of Hargicourt, which resulted in the taking of some prisoners, there was little else to report during the week-end.

On the French front there was artillery activity at various points.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.

Saturday, 10.44 a.m.—There is nothing of interest to report on the British front.

5.40 p.m.—The enemy made several unsuccessful attempts to raid our trenches near Neuve Chapelle and south of Lens last night and early this morning. Apart from this there is nothing of interest to report.

Aviation.—On the 18th inst., although the sky was overcast all day, with rain at intervals, a certain amount of flying took place, chiefly consisting of observation for the artillery. Bombs were dropped and many rounds fired from low heights at numerous targets, including a long column, in which many casualties were seen to be caused. Three hostile machines were brought down by aerodrome and one by our infantry, while another was driven down out of control by antiaircraft gunfire. One of our machines is missing.

Sunday, 10.27 a.m.—The night passed quietly, and there is nothing of special interest to report.

Sunday, 9.22 p.m.—Last night an enemy raid south-east of Ypres was repulsed. Early this morning our troops raided the enemy trenches east of Hargicourt, bringing back prisoners. Hostile artillery has been active to-day north-east of Ypres and in the vicinity of Neuve Chapelle and Lens.

Aviation.—On the 19th good visibility enabled a great many hostile batteries to be engaged successfully by our artillery with observation from the air. Over three hundred bombs were dropped during the day on miscellaneous targets, including a large ammunition dump near Courtrai, and several thousands of rounds fired at the enemy in the trenches by our low-flying aeroplanes. Five hostile machines were brought down and three driven down out of control. Four of our machines are missing.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

Saturday Afternoon.—During the night there was a rather lively artillery action in Champagne, in the Auberives region, and on the left bank of the Meuse to the north of Beuvraux.

Saturday Night.—There is nothing to report, except artillery activity to the north of the Chemin des Dames and on the left bank of the Meuse.

Sunday Afternoon.—We easily repelled two enemy raids, the one in the region south-east of St. Quentin, the other north of Courteçon. There was intermittent cannonade on the rest of the front.

Sunday Night.—North-west of Rheims, and on the right bank of the Meuse, the artillery duel was fairly lively. An enemy coup de main on some small posts in the Louvre region failed. North of Mihiel our patrols brought back prisoners.

Aviation.—In the course of yesterday our air forces and the enemy's carried out engagements. Six German machines were destroyed, and five others fell within their own lines, seriously damaged.

GERMAN OFFICIAL.

Saturday Afternoon.—There were lively artillery duels at times during the night on the south bank of the Ancre and in the neighbourhood of Miraumont. On many parts of the front and especially on both sides of the Meuse, firing activity increased in violence. North of Peronvaux storming troops took prisoners from the enemy's lines.

Sunday Night.—There was lively artillery activity in the Ypres salient.

Sunday Afternoon.—Ostend has been bombarded from the sea.

Violent artillery duels continued in the salient north-east of Ypres until late in the night. On both sides of the Lys, at La Bassee Canal, as well as between Lens and St. Quentin, fighting activity was revived. The fire was directed with special intensity throughout the day on our positions south of the Scarpe. The French artillery was also very active in this sector. There was at times an increase in the fighting in the Meuse region, as well as north and south of the Rhine-Marne Canal.

ITALIAN FRONT.

BIG ENEMY ATTACK AT CAPO SILE.

HELD UP BY ARTILLERY.

Italian Official.—During the night of the 17th-18th January the enemy, on a wide front, again attempted an attack on our bridge-head at Capo Sile, but was arrested by the artillery, which promptly intervened, and the few hostile groups of men who succeeded in reaching our lines were destroyed by machine-gun and rifle fire.

During the day yesterday the artillery was active on both banks of the Brenta and in the eastern part of Asiago. Our machine-gunning parties drove back small enemy posts and captured material on the Asiago Plateau.

Sunday.—There was intermittent artillery fire on the Daone valley (Giudicarie). At Sano (southeast of Monte Mori) our storming parties carried out a successful counter-attack on the enemy line, bringing back one officer and ten other men. Our losses were made prisoners. There were brief but intense artillery duels in the Mount Asolone region.

Our artillery fire caused a big fire to break out within the enemy's lines to the south of Sernaglia. Along the Piave our artillery effectually replied to the enemy's, which were more lively between Nervesa and Masera, and dispersed wagon transport and enemy troops in the neighbourhood of St. Abruzzo and Le Grave.

British Official.—General Plumer reports unofficially that the enemy has been pushed back from the Asiago Plateau. The weather lately has been bad. Flying has only been possible on two days during the past week. On these days, at the conference have a way of departing suddenly and widely from the agenda, and these motions may not be taken at all. The subject may be disposed of at the meeting of the Executive Committee, or otherwise. But, however this may be, no one expects the conference to stultify itself by reversing its previous repeated vote.

Convenience and economy both dictate the abolition of these functionaries, and the relations of the countries would not suffer.

ADVANCE IN PALESTINE.

British Official.—On January 18th our line was continued forward to a maximum depth of one mile on a four-mile front to the north-eastern hood of Durah, twelve miles north of Jerusalem. Some prisoners were captured. On aerial fighting, on January 17, one enemy aeroplane was shot down and two others driven down out of control. On January 18th our aeroplanes dropped 80 bombs on a railway station west of Samaria and on camps in the neighbourhood. One enemy aeroplane was shot down.

GERMANY AND ANNEXATIONS.

AGREEMENT BETWEEN SOLDIERS AND CIVILIANS.

The Tageliche Rundschau, says a Reuter telegram, dated January 19th, learns that a conference of Eastern questions took place at conferences between the Higher Army Command and the Chancellor in respect of the regulation of all Eastern questions. The Baltic lands are regarded as a united whole, and, therefore, the Lithuanian, Courland, and Polish questions are to be considered as all connected with one another. This position, the paper remarks, gives a united Austro-German front against Russia. The situation is formed in form, first for the representative bodies in Lithuania, Courland, and Poland, whose unanimous declarations are in our favour. Their wishes will be given access and but not cancelled. There was, likewise, a full understanding that effective guarantees must be created in the other Russia's unsuccessful attempts.

The Leipzig Volkszeitung says:—The issue of the Government crisis appears to be victory for the Kreuzzeitung in form, first for the Pan-Germans in fact. Frontier rectifications are to be striven after, and, while preserving in appearance the principle of the self-determination of peoples, the Government has not entirely, but in its essential point, submitted to the Pan-German demands. The same paper cites the Leipzig Neueste Nachrichten, as reporting that the political leaders have given abundant assurances to the Ostend for sending purposes the statue of Count de Smet de Macyer.

A Berlin official telegram from Koenigsberg, dated Friday, announces that the Russian Government has agreed to the declaration of the rights of the Ukrainian Republic, and that he has no doubt that to comply with our wishes. Since that time Brest-Litovsk, and we have received no definite reply. On the other hand, there has been no response to our request that we shall be informed as to the character of the negotiations which have taken place between the Ukrainians and the Austro-Germans before our arrival. At the sitting of January 15, in discussing the question of the evacuation of occupied territories, Kuehlmann declared, amongst other things, that the question of the frontiers of these territories was considered on their merits, and that this fact would have an influence on the negotiations. Nothing the fact of there having been diplomatic negotiations as to what have not participated, on the part of the Ukrainian delegation, we have sent to-day, signed by our President, Comrade Trotsky, the following letter to them:—

"To-day, during the negotiations with us, the President of the German delegation declared that the question concerning the occupied territories is in course of negotiation with the Ukrainian delegation, especially as regards the definition of frontiers, and that this must have a great influence on the arrangements. We are insisting, once more, that the declaration of the Central Secretariat (the Ukrainians), in spite of the understanding arrived at on the first day as to the desirability of not making it public against the common enemies, is continuing, at before the negotiations with the Austro-German delegation. In spite of our request, and of your promise, it is not even showing us the minutes of these negotiations. As the essential interests of the labouring classes of Russia and Ukrania are involved, we are repudiating responsibility for such negotiations, and we are addressing directly to the Ukrainian Central Committee at Kharkov the request that they shall take all measures to see that the interests of the Ukrainian People's Republic shall be defended from the unprincipled and treacherous secret game of the General Secretariat. It is no secret from you that the Ukrainian Central Executive Committee has, at the present time, much more right than the Central Ukrainian Republic than the Rada at Kieff. If we did not accept protest against the action of the Ukrainian delegation in the negotiations, it was done in the hope that in the face of the common enemy their conduct would be in accordance with the elementary principles which we profess, and that they would not create conflict between themselves, on the one side, and the Kharkov Central Executive Committee and us, on the other side. But inasmuch as your intentional policy is not in harmony with your internal policy, is based on secret agreements and treachery to the cause of democracy, we are compelled to declare that your authority is not of a kind which permits you to speak in the name of the independent Republic.

"KARAHAN."

CENTRAL POWERS AND THE UKRAINE.

Telegraphic communication with Germany (says a Reuter telegram, dated Amsterdam, Friday) is still delayed. According to the German papers, a report from Brest-Litovsk, dated January 16, states that a private meeting took place in the quarters occupied by Count Czernin, who is indisposed, between the delegates of the Central Powers and the Ukrainian delegates. An agreement in principle was reached on the question concerning the future political relations between the Central Powers and the Ukraine.

Frontier rectifications are to be striven after, and, while preserving in appearance the principle of the self-determination of peoples, the Government has not entirely, but in its essential point, submitted to the Pan-German demands. The same paper cites the Leipzig Neueste Nachrichten, as reporting that the political leaders have given abundant assurances to the Ostend for sending purposes the statue of Count de Smet de Macyer.

A Berlin official telegram from Koenigsberg, dated Friday, announces that the Russian Government has agreed to the declaration of the rights of the Ukrainian Republic, and that he has no doubt that to comply with our wishes. Since that time Brest-Litovsk, and we have received no definite reply. On the other hand, there has been no response to our request that we shall be informed as to the character of the negotiations which have taken place between the Ukrainians and the Austro-Germans before our arrival. At the sitting of January 15, in discussing the question of the evacuation of occupied territories, Kuehlmann declared, amongst other things, that the question of the frontiers of these territories was considered on their merits, and that this fact would have an influence on the negotiations. Nothing the fact of there having been diplomatic negotiations as to what have not participated, on the part of the Ukrainian delegation, we have sent to-day, signed by our President, Comrade Trotsky, the following letter to them:—

"To-day, during the negotiations with us, the President of the German delegation declared that the question concerning the occupied territories is in course of negotiation with the Ukrainian delegation, especially as regards the definition of frontiers, and that this must have a great influence on the arrangements. We are insisting, once more, that the declaration of the Central Secretariat (the Ukrainians), in spite of the understanding arrived at on the first day as to the desirability of not making it public against the common enemies, is continuing, at before the negotiations with the Austro-German delegation. In spite of our request, and of your promise, it is not even showing us the minutes of these negotiations. As the essential interests of the labouring classes of Russia and Ukrania are involved, we are repudiating responsibility for such negotiations, and we are addressing directly to the Ukrainian Central Committee at Kharkov the request that they shall take all measures to see that the interests of the Ukrainian People's Republic shall be defended from the unprincipled and treacherous secret game of the General Secretariat. It is no secret from you that the Ukrainian Central Executive Committee has, at the present time, much more right than the Central Ukrainian Republic than the Rada at Kieff. If we did not accept protest against the action of the Ukrainian delegation in the negotiations, it was done in the hope that in the face of the common enemy their conduct would be in accordance with the elementary principles which we profess, and that they would not create conflict between themselves, on the one side, and the Kharkov Central Executive Committee and us, on the other side. But inasmuch as your intentional policy is not in harmony with your internal policy, is based on secret agreements and treachery to the cause of democracy, we are compelled to declare that your authority is not of a kind which permits you to speak in the name of the independent Republic.

CENTRAL POWERS AND THE UKRAINE.

Telegraphic communication with Germany (says a Reuter telegram, dated Amsterdam, Friday) is still delayed. According to the German papers, a report from Brest-Litovsk, dated January 16, states that a private meeting took place in the quarters occupied by Count Czernin, who is indisposed, between the delegates of the Central Powers and the Ukrainian delegates. An agreement in principle was reached on the question concerning the future political relations between the Central Powers and the Ukraine.

WAR ITEMS.

According to Les Nouvelles, of Maastricht, the Belgian Government is filling with Austrian troops, which arrived this week. The same paper states that the Germans have seized the Ostend for sending purposes the statue of Count de Smet de Macyer.

A Berlin official telegram from Koenigsberg, dated Friday, officially reported that on January 18th, at 5.10 in the afternoon, the leave train No. 3,000, for Riga, collided with passenger train 4,008 near Insterburg, between Pamielten and Argeningken. Up to the present 25 killed and 50 wounded have been recovered.

The Spanish Government authorises the publication of the following semi-official Note:—There is no truth in the report published in the Cologne Gazette, according to which Spanish officers serving in the Mediterranean on board British hospital ships are alleged to have stated that troops transported on these vessels enjoy excellent health, though they appeared to be suffering from fever. All the information received by the Spanish Government justifies it in affirming that, contrary to the suggestions of the above-mentioned newspaper, no British hospital ship with Spanish officers on board has ever abused our pavilion, or transported troops or war material of any sort.

NAVAL FIGHT IN DARDANELLES.

THE BRESLAU SUNK.

GOEBEN DAMAGED AND BEACHED.

The Secretary of the Admiralty announces:—

The British Commander-in-Chief in the Mediterranean reports that the German battle cruiser Goeben (Turkish name, Sultan Selim), the light cruiser Breslau (Turkish name, Midilli), and destroyers were in action with British forces at the entrance to the Dardanelles on Sunday morning, January 20th.

The Breslau was sunk.

The Goeben escaped, but has been beached, evidently badly damaged, at Nagara Point, in the Narrows of the Straits.

The Goeben is now being attacked by naval aircraft.

Further details are expected, but no other information has yet come to hand.

Our losses are reported to be H.M.S. Raglan (monitor), Commander Viscount Broome, R.N., and a small monitor (M 28), Commander Donald P. MacGregor, R.N.

VISCOUNT BROOME.

Viscount Broome, Commander of the monitor Raglan, is the only son of the present Earl Kitchener, and nephew of the distinguished Field-Marshal, who was lost in the disaster to H.M.S. Hampshire. Viscount Broome is in his fortieth year.

THE GOEBEN AND BRESLAU.

On the day on which France declared war on Austria-Hungary, August 10, 1914, the Goeben and the Breslau escaped to the Dardanelles, much to the chagrin of our Admiralty. They were announced to have been sold to Turkey, long before she came into the war. They have been used for raids in the Black Sea, but were disappointing, owing to their intricate machinery being difficult to repair.

A few months back they were bombed at Constantinople by a British seaplane.

The Goeben, completed in 1912, is of 22,640 tons, and could steam 28 knots. She was reckoned of the best type of German battle-cruiser. Her ten 11in guns are capable of developing 52,000 h.p. Her complement of men was 1,020, and she cost, when launched in 1911, £2,200,000.

The Breslau was a smaller type, an armoured cruiser of 4,820 tons, completed in 1912.

EXCITEMENT IN AUSTRIA.

POSSIBLE CABINET CRISIS.

The Vienna correspondent of the Vossische Zeitung says a Reuter telegram, dated Saturday, states that great excitement has been caused among Parliamentary Deputies by Count Valentini, has resigned, and will be replaced by the President of the Provinces of Prussia. Herr von Dandl. The reason for Count Valentini's resignation has come more quickly than was expected and hoped for. We say "hoped for," because Count Valentini did not always use his great influence in a manner to the benefit of service to the common weal. The position is full of difficulties and extraordinary great political insight and objectivity are required, accurately. Dr. von Valentini is lacking in this respect. His failures were especially remarkable with regard to Dr. Seidler's Ministry, followed by resignation and the Michaelis crisis. It is not to be understood that his conduct during recent events has been shaped by the interests of authoritative quarters. Dr. von Valentini is a Bavarian and had been Chief of the Civil Cabinet since 1908. His successor, Herr von Berg, has long been in the Kaiser's good graces. He is a strong Conservative.

The Frankfurter Zeitung says:—The retirement of Dr. von Valentini, Chief of the German Civil Cabinet, is a distinct victory for the Pan-Germans. Herr von Berg, who succeeds Next to the Chancellor, the Chief of the Civil Cabinet is perhaps the most important personality in all political affairs in Germany and Prussia.

CHIEF OF KAISER'S CIVIL CABINET RESIGNS.

The Berlin Mittag Zeitung, says a Reuter telegram, dated Friday, announces that the Chief of the Kaiser's Civil Cabinet, Dr. von Valentini, has resigned, and will be replaced by the President of the Provinces of Prussia, Herr von Dandl. Lotus

AGAIN this winter, parents are sending Lotus to their sons at the front because these boots never fail to keep the feet warm and dry on the march and in the trenches.

The makers, who always brand their name on the soles, guarantee these boots to be absolutely waterproof and supply them through the shops appointed in every town to sell Lotus.

And just now, so short is the supply, officers actually at the front are the only men who are getting these high leg field boots. The shops selling them arrange for every pair to go direct from the factory to addresses in Flanders, France, Italy, &c.

Lieutenant Gaston de Pret.—The death in action occurred on the 18th inst. of Lieutenant Gaston de Pret, Rosse de Calcheberg, of the Belgian Army. In 1915 he joined a Belgian Lancer regiment, and has been all through the war since the invasion of Belgium. He was a splendid horseman, and was beloved by all the officers and men of his corps. He was 22 years of age, and was a stepson of Colonel Fowle, of the Royal Hospital, Dublin.

Mr. Gerald Harris.—News reached Dublin on Saturday of the death in action on the 15th inst. of Private Gerald Harris, of the Royal Dublin Fusiliers. Mr. Harris, who was a well-known Irish journalist, last year resigned the position which he held on the sub-editorial staff of the Irish Independent to join the Army. He was sent to the front in September last, and since that time had seen much hard fighting.

Previous to having joined the Army he acted for some years as Honorary Secretary of the Dublin and District Branch of the Institute of Journalists. His death is believed to have been due to shell fire. At a meeting of the Dublin and District Branch of the Institute of Journalists in Dublin on Saturday a resolution of deep regret at Mr. Harris's death and of sincere sympathy with his widow was passed unanimously

MR. DE VALERA IN MAYO.

STRONG SPEECH AT CASTLEBAR.

A large demonstration under Sinn Fein auspices, and representative of the County Mayo, was held in Castlebar yesterday, under the chairmanship of Dr. Anthony MacBride, brother of the late Mr. John MacBride.

Letters of apology for non-attendance were read from several prominent Sinn Feiners, including those from the Very Rev. Canon Dolan, P.P., Ballinrobe; Father Michael O'Flanagan, C.C., Crossna, Boyle; and Count Plunkett, that his absence was due to the fact that his bishop had prohibited him, under pain of suspension, from attending any political meeting during Lent. (A Voice—"Shame on his bishop.") "I know, Sir, the letter continued, that a suspended priest is nothing, though he might, like Roger Casement, claim to belong to goodly company and to right noble successors, and could console himself much to forward the cause of the Irish nation."

Resolutions pledging allegiance to the establishment of an Irish Republic, repudiating Lloyd George's Irish Convention, and calling on the Irish people to hold on to their food supplies were passed.

Mr. de Valera addressed the meeting, and declared that he stood by the proclamation of the Irish Republic of 1916. The proof of the sincerity of President Wilson's and Lloyd George's declarations was the right of the Irish people the right of self-determination, and he was going to take a plebiscite, and to bind himself beforehand as to the result of that plebiscite, if the Irish people on the question of Irish independence or Irish subjugation. Although the principle of self-determination might not, he acted upon, there was one principle that would be acted upon, because it was as important to America as it was to Ireland or France, and that was that Ireland would be neither a British nor German province. It was as important for the freedom of the seas of the world that Ireland, situated as she was, should not belong to Britain, and give Britain the supremacy of the seas, as that Ireland should not belong to Germany, and make Germany masters of the seas. If Ireland or England remained Ireland's enemy, and so long as Germany remained England's enemy, then so long was Ireland Germany's friend. (Cheers.) America, he declared, had the power to force England to settle the Irish question, and that the settlement they would have was a complete one, and that was for England to clear out of Ireland. He stated that Ireland was prepared to enter into a league of nations which was to be set up at the end of the war, and on the same footing as England or Germany or any other nation. Such a league could only be brought about through the co-operation of America and the victory of Germany over the other. He said that, if England cleared her troops out of Ireland in the morning and acknowledged Ireland as an independent independence, he pledged himself on his own behalf, and he was sure, on behalf of every other Irishman, that they would defend their country. Having expressed his confidence that the Sinn Fein candidate would win in South Armagh, he cautioned the Irish people not to export any food, and suggested the adoption of a co-operative movement in each parish, by which the county could be transferred and sold in another.

THE HUNGER STRIKE IN MOUNTJOY PRISON.

SINN FEIN PROTESTS.

Protests against the forcible feeding of the Sinn Fein prisoners in Mountjoy Prison were entered on Saturday evening at a meeting held in Foster place, Dublin, the speakers including Count Plunkett, Mrs. Pearse, Mr. Kelly and Darrel Figgis. Superintendent Dunne, who was in charge of a large force of police, intimated to Count Plunkett that no meeting could be held in Dame street, before the meeting, that there would be no objection to the meeting being held in Foster place. The crowd, having been warned by Inspector Barrett, moved reluctantly towards Foster place, but on the part of the crowd—hanning on the leaders to move further in from Dame street. Mr. Figgis reported that the police had not yet begun, and they were within their right in standing there. Inspector Barrett replied to the effect that, as a public assembly, they were obstructing the traffic.

At the close of the meeting, Count Plunkett asked the crowd to follow the car on which the speakers were seated. A procession was then formed, and the crowd, marching four deep, proceeded to Mountjoy Prison, flanked on either side by police. Rebel songs were sung and some excitement prevailed, but the tactful action of the police had a calming effect on the crowd. At the entrance to the prison, which was guarded by police and military, a demonstration in the form of singing and cheering took place, and the crowd then quietly dispersed.

Another protest meeting was held at Beresford place last evening, at which Count Plunkett and Mr. Stack spoke. It was intended to march again to the prison, but, owing to the inclement wet weather, the intention was not fulfilled.

THE IRISH CATTLE TRADE.

At the first meeting of the newly-elected Committee of Irish Fat Cattle Exporters and Stock owners' Association Mr. Wm. Field, M.P., presided. The following officers were unanimously elected:—

Mr. John Leonard, J.P., Chairman; Mr. P. J. Kennedy, Co.C., Vice-Chairman; Messrs. John F. Cuffe, J.P., and Michael Reilly, Hon. Secretaries; Messrs. James Ennis, J.P., and Robert Craigie, Hon. Auditors.

Mr. P. J. Kennedy dwelt on the necessity for extending the scope and influence of the Association by enlisting the membership of every branch of the Irish cattle trade. His remarks were cordially endorsed by the members.

Numerous complimentary telegrams were received from members of the Association who trade in England as to the drastic regulations imposed there on Irish cattle traders. The Government, consisting of Messrs. Field, Leonard, Beatty, Courthan, P. J. Kennedy, Edward Storey, and D. P. MacAvin, secretary, were appointed to wait on the Department of Agriculture with reference to these regulations. It was also decided to address communications to the members of Parliament with regard to the enormous wastage of food value caused by the unreasonable detention of cattle at both Irish and English ports.

SPANISH STEAMER TORPEDOED.

A Paris telegram (Press Association war special) says:—The Spanish steamer Donanova, flying the Spanish flag and with the Spanish national colours painted on her hull, was torpedoed at noon on January 15th in the Western Mediterranean. The vessel was able to be towed into port.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT IN ENGLAND.

SCOTCH EXPRESS RUNS INTO LANDSLIDE.

MANY KILLED AND INJURED.

On Saturday afternoon a serious accident occurred on the Midland Railway main line to Carlisle, resulting in a death roll estimated, as far as the meagre details to hand to date indicate, at from seven to twelve, or fifteen, a similar number of passengers being more or less seriously injured. The train involved was the 8.50 a.m. express from St. Pancras to Glasgow via Leicester and Leeds. It was a long train, well filled with passengers, for Carlisle and Scotland. All went well until the express reached the valley of the Eden, by which the railway runs down a steep gradient through tunnels, over a bridge and between an embankment from Appleby to Carlisle.

At a point called Long Meg, between Lazonby and Little Salkeld Stations, about fifteen miles south of Carlisle, the railway runs between steep banks. The recent severe frost and thaw had evidently loosened the earth on the bank, for as the express was approaching the cutting the driver, named Whitworth, of Carlisle, saw the landslide occur, several tons of earth falling on to the railway, and blocking both lines. Applying the brakes, Whitworth succeeded in lessening the scope of the accident, but the whole train passing over the obstruction became derailed. The first carriage was telescoped, the second was turned over on its side, and the engine ran into the bank on one side of the line.

The passengers killed or injured were all stated to have been travelling in the first two carriages of the express, some being partly buried in the landslide. Whitworth and his fireman, Costello, also a Carlisle man, escaped lously escaped with a severe shocking. Doctors and nurses were telegraphed for, and a fully equipped ambulance train left Carlisle for the scene of the accident, where, darkness coming on, the work of rescue and relief was performed with difficulty. Later in the evening a relief train conveyed the North passengers of the derailed express to Carlisle, and also four of the injured, the names of the latter being: Mr. John Barclay, West Regent street, Glasgow; Nurse Catherine Johnston, of Hamilton, Glasgow; Mrs. Miller, Furnace street, Carlisle; and Mrs. Murray, East Norfolk street, Carlisle.

Up till late on Saturday night no list of killed or of the remaining injured could be obtained, but it was learned that among the killed were several women and two children. A mother was travelling with an infant. She was killed, and the baby taken care of by the Salvation Army.

SURVIVORS REACH GLASGOW.

The relief train, carrying many survivors of the smash, reached Glasgow at 11 o'clock on Saturday night. Scenes of the accident had reached Glasgow during the early evening, and many anxious relatives awaited the special train. There were many affecting scenes when the relief train drew up at St. Enoch Station. Practically all the passengers showed outward traces of their painful ordeal. None were seriously injured, but many complained of shock and minor sufferings.

Thrilling details were related to a Press Association representative at the station. A pathetic group was that of Mrs. Bramwell Booth, wife of the head of the Salvation Army, and their son and daughter, Captain Bernard Booth, and Captain Olive Booth. They had travelled to attend a young people's social conference, but Mrs. Booth left London on Friday night, while her son and daughter were passengers in the express when it met disaster. Both escaped with shock and slight bruises. They brought to Glasgow with them an infant girl of ten months, picked up from the wreckage, and whose mother is believed to be among the passengers killed, and the child was crying bitterly as both parents had been slightly scalded with steam, and otherwise burned.

As the Captains Booth appeared at the reception door in St. Enoch Station they were greeted by their mother, who was anxiously awaiting their arrival. There was an affectionate re-union, and soon a crowd gathered round them. It was quite dark. Snow and ice seemed all around us, while it was raining heavily. The rescuers worked with frenzied energy, especially when they saw some wounded soldiers among the wreckage. In one of the coaches we discovered a young boy hanging down from the roof with his scalp torn off. So far as I observed there were three adults, all women, and two children who appeared to have been killed.

I cannot praise too highly the work of the lady attendant of the train, who within a minute after the accident came rushing along the line ripping up table cloths and linen, making them into bandages."

AGONISING SCENES.

Mrs. McKillop, wife of Mr. Jas. McKillop, of Grosvenor Restaurant, Glasgow, and sister of Mr. Macdonald Hastings, playwright, remarked:—"Oh, God! I had a miraculous escape. I had only got seated a few minutes in the dining saloon when I was shaken fearfully and a great smashing noise, followed by the train shooting on. Before I could realise what it was I heard crashing and screaming, and then knew that a disaster had occurred. The chief fact, as far as I was concerned, was that the saloon seemed to be the only carriage that had not been shattered. Embarrassing in all conscience though the scenes afterwards were, the agony some of the poor souls pinned down must have suffered will ever haunt me. I shall never forget the pitiful scenes as our relief train came to Dumfries. Some of the victims were in a dying way. News of the accident had spread, and anxious friends rushed to the carriages to ascertain if their friends had been stricken.

A young engineer from Sheffield spoke proudly of the passengers' conduct. They behaved as British to the backbone. Others were impressed with a lady passenger when the smash occurred. She, it was, were thrown to the floor in a heap. They sustained nothing more serious than bruises. He assisted with ropes to pull them to safety. Then he and others began to release the injured, but many complained of shock and minor sufferings.

A pathetic group was that of Mrs. Bramwell Booth, wife of the head of the Salvation Army, and their son and daughter, Captain Bernard Booth, and Captain Olive Booth. So far as I observed there were three adults, all women, and two children who appeared to have been killed.

MANY PERSONS KILLED AT MOSCOW.

A Petrograd Saturday telegram says:—Many persons were killed and wounded as a result of the Red Guards' firing on the Moscow pro-Constituent Assembly demonstrators.

SIR GEORGE BUCHANAN'S OPINION.

Sir George Buchanan, British Ambassador to Russia, in the course of an interview with Reuter's representative, said—As to the political situation, it is so confused that I cannot fully express my views in the public Press. The main fact to realise is that the Bolsheviks are, without doubt, masters of the Northern Russia, at any rate for the present. As to the Constituent Assembly, which, according to some telegrams, met on Friday in somewhat difficult and dramatic circumstances, it seems that the Social Revolutionaries have an actual majority over the Bolsheviks, but after the fact that the Bolsheviks have the real power, and will maintain it, even by force, I cannot believe that the Assembly will without doubt, spreading throughout the whole Russia, and they appeal very specially to those who have authority to enable her future. Russia, added the Ambassador, I would make no forecast, even were I able to do so. Of one thing I am sure, and that is not finished. Such a vast country cannot be ruled permanently, and I believe that the inevitable reaction will not know, but of the fact that a and common sense will assert itself before long to pull through. If you ask me how or when I can only answer that I do not know, but of the fact I am quite convinced.

RIOTS IN SPAIN.

Reuter's correspondent at Madrid telegraphed on Sunday:—An official telegram from Alicante, four, slightly hurt, and the others escaped. Disorderly demonstration took place, and workmen were compelled to stop work. The crowd attacked shops and police engaged in the fight. Many middle-class women to join the ranks of the demonstrators. The Civil Guard attempted to disperse the crowd, but they threw stones from the windows, and returned the fire, killing three men.

must lie exclusively in the hands of the working classes and their representatives, the Soviets.

CLAIMS OF THE MODERATES.

The Constituent Assembly, says a Reuter message from Petrograd, dated Saturday, dispersed at five this morning, after arranging to reassemble at noon. A declaration by the Moderates and Socialists was read by M. Tsereteli, a former member of the Duma, who is now probably the most popular Social Revolutionary leader in the country. His appearance in the Tribune was cheered to the echo by the Social Revolutionaries; whiles the Maximalists whistled and hooted, shouting "Traitor," "Scoundrel," "Get out," etc. Krilenko, the Bolshevik Commander-in-Chief, was among the hurlers of epithets, and when M. Tsheretoff, former Minister of Agriculture, and Social Revolutionary leader, after several vain appeals for order, threatened to take measures against the interjectors, Krilenko exclaimed, "Try it; your day is over."

M. Tsereteli, who spoke for an hour, arraigned the Bolshevik usurpation of power, and insisted that the supreme rights of the Russian Republic should be invested in the Constituent Assembly.

Allied and neutral diplomats were not invited to attend the opening of the Constituent Assembly. There were also no Cadet members present.

At the Tauride Palace, the All-Russian Railwaymen's Congress, by 273 votes to 261, carried a resolution supporting the Constituent Assembly, and calling on the People's Commissioners to come to an agreement with the majority, with a view to the formation of a Government which would be responsible to the Constituent Assembly.

The declaration carried on the working classes to refuse to submit to the dictatorship of a minority, and to stand up for the full power of the Constituent Assembly. It insisted, inctably, that the Constituent Assembly alone was competent to express the will of the people for the conclusion of peace, and proposed the election of the representatives to regulate the armistice already existing on the Russian front, and to invite all belligerents immediately to enter into negotiations for a general peace, in which revolutionary Russia would uphold the revolutionary principles bound up in the revolution. Replying to M. Tsereteli, the Maximalist, M. Skvortzoff, described Parliamentary institutions as fetishes and ideals only for the bourgeois classes.

The spokesman of the Social Revolutionaries proposed the discussion of most vital questions, of which the first four dealt with peace, and the most speedy way of ending the war, the fundamental land laws, the new form of government of Russia, the regulation of industry, and measures to combat unemployment.

FIRING IN THE STREETS.

Reuter's correspondent at Petrograd, writing on Saturday, says:—Processions are not allowed anywhere except on the Nevsky Prospekt, and this morning, when another procession reassembled, after having been dispersed by a warning shot in the air, the sailors were the chief shooters. They included members of the crew of the Polar Star, formerly the yacht of the Tsars of Russia. Machine guns were fired from the Empress Marie Academy, and from other commanding premises. The casualties either fled or threw themselves on the ground. Several were killed or wounded. One soldier, carrying a flag, remained in the middle of the road, and shouted to the Red Guards: "I have been fighting at the front; kill me here if you want to." He was shot dead on the spot. The Red Guards tore off the badges of the procession, and when Mr. Tsheretoff, former Minister of Agriculture, and Social Revolutionary leader, after several vain appeals for order, threatened to take measures against the interjectors, Krilenko exclaimed, "Try it; your day is over."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE DUBLIN CATTLE TRADE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—My attention has been drawn to a note of an interview reported in the Irish Times of January 14th, 1918, with Sir Thomas Russell, Bart., on the above subject. In this interview Sir Thomas Russell is reported to have said that it is a "remarkable fact" that that 200 cattle perished since the 1st October last as the result of the congestion at the Port of Dublin, and that 10,000 tons of beef were wasted. If the statement be untrue, and if, in the critical time in which we live, it seems to reflect on one, or more, of His Majesty's Ministers, surely it deserves the strongest punishment which the Defence of the Realm Act permits?

But, sir, so far as I am aware, neither myself nor anyone of the trade, of which I am a member, has, as the first paragraph of your report would seem to imply, "levelled any charge as the trade of the Port of Dublin." Quite on the contrary, the praise bestowable has been almost invariably expressed for the efforts of the management of each shipping company, and for the exertions and unfailing patience of the port officials and the shipping live stock agents in their endeavours to relieve the extraordinary pressure in very exceptional circumstances.

Sir Thomas Russell's statement that he knows "nothing" of this loss will not surprise Irish stock men, but his language surely must. The estimate that not less than 200 cattle intended for the English meat markets perished as a result of exhaustion and want of proper food, owing to the congestion at the Port of Dublin, and that something approximate to 10,000 tons of beef were wasted in Ireland, is not only a careful estimate, but it is, by most men whose business, like mine, brought them into daily touch with what went on at the Port of Dublin, held to be rather under than over the mark. There is a law by which people can be held answerable for statements made over the Sovereign's self and for many friends in the cross-Channel food trade to England I shall be happy to be permitted to make myself responsible for this statement, as above questioned.

From the 1st October well into the middle of December (a month, indeed, taken as a guide) to describe the awful sufferings of the unhappy cattle shut up in the Dublin shipping yards and lairages. In the first part of the period named, and in the full flood of what is known as the Irish season (beef), cattle (amongst the number some of mine) were unloaded from boats in Dublin when the port was closed owing to Admiralty requirements. Huge numbers of cattle were on hand. No. 1 cast of cattle would contain, whereas measurements according to locality are always a mystery.—Yours, etc.,

Irish cattle are always in good condition, I believe, in all the world, it is certain that a pestilence must have supervened.

It was then that the ruination of the cattle trade appealed for assistance to Lord Rhondda and represented to him what was taking place. Lord Rhondda was deeply moved, steps should be taken to give the trade some notice when the port was closed, in order to keep cattle on their own premises. Before the 1st of January Lord Rhondda immediately replied by despatching a representative to Dublin, who, in conjunction with the Admiralty representative at the Port of Dublin, did all that seemed possible to meet our views. Is this, too, a "malicious lie?"

As Irish representatives of the trade, who, like illustrious father, has ever evinced a great interest in Irish live-stock, visited some of the scenes of disaster, and saw the stroke of mid-day, long past the time when "Adieu is said," been removed, that this nobleman reached the yards. There were, on that day, in the yards which were visited, but one dead bullock to be seen; but there were many cattle on that day, rapidly succumbing to the effects of exhaustion. The first question his lordship asked was: "How is it that no racks are erected in which to place hay for the poor beasts?" Are the shipowners "malicious liars," too, or is it true that there are no hay-racks in these sheds? Surely the Irish Shipowners' Association will not permit their erection!

The shipping agents of the owners worked like slaves through all the distressing time—fed their charges really well, only we fear the hay in the thronged press of cattle rapidly trampled into manure, because racks did not exist. I did not see all the dead cattle—only some of them. When failing, they were speedily removed; when ultimately released, many of them, going on the boats weak, could not stand the journey. I saw their poor bodies, often masses of abomination—which is known as "Walking dressed"—hung up at Birkenhead, only in most cases to be met by the cut of the fateful cross.

What need for more of these harrowing details, most patiently borne by Irish men, who have played, I think, not an unworthy part to cater for the food supply of Great Britain, and whom I am really happy to think are "malicious liars" in the mind of Sir Thomas Russell only?

To do him full justice in what has been said and written on this subject, I do not think unreasonably to blame. There is another, outside the Irish Administration, responsible, when our ships are sailing, for a "congestion" that came to our cattle, and it is this same ten hours which has, in my opinion, played the greatest part in the cruelties and losses which have occurred.

You will hear, sir, more of this anon, for a letter has been addressed, setting forth much of what I write, to every member of the British House of Commons on this subject, appealing for remedy and redress. Yet His Majesty's Minister for Irish Agriculture, with the palatial and costly structure for his Department, within almost sight and hearing of the cattle yards, knows so little of what has taken place that he selects the words "malicious lie" to describe it all.—Yours, etc.,

E. KENNEDY.

THE EGG CASE ORDER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Now that the railway companies have made a tentative move towards grappling with the enormous shortage of trucks, of boats, of packing-cases, not to mention the locked-up capital in returned empties, why not take the bull by the horns and end the bill system altogether, and so avoid the risk of revolutionise the whole thing? I submit the following scheme for the criticism of those concerned:—

A conference should sit and settle on a series of standard cases or crates. The railway companies should accept goods in no other sizes, except certain specified lines of goods that require special treatment. The cost of these crates would be credited to the sender by the railway on receiving them for the first time for transit, and would be debited to the consignee on delivery. At every first-class station there would be a case depôt, which would pay cash for all the accidental wear and tear and damage. The function of these more flimsy boxes would be found a small charge to be collected. Empty boxes would be found a small charge to be collected. Empty boxes would be found a small charge to be collected. Empty

ALLEGED SHOCKING CRUELTY TO GOATS.

At Croydon on Saturday, Kenny Kirk, proprietor of a school for the sons of gentlemen at Wallington, Surrey, was charged with the cruelty to goats. He had been previously fined for a similar offence. An inspector found the goats in dilapidated conservatories exposed to weather and so tethered that they could not reach food. Eleven goats were dead, and five more dead and decomposed goats were found underneath some leaves in a shed. Other dead goats were found in bedrooms described as the boys' dormitory, and all the live goats were in a shockingly neglected condition. The defendant, who blamed his man for the neglect, was sentenced to a month's hard labour and fined £25. Notice of appeal was given.

GLASGOW'S TANK INVESTMENTS.

Glasgow "tank week" concluded magnificently at nine o'clock on Saturday night, when it was announced that the city's takings had been £2,500,102, making the week's total £14,171,760. Several additional subscriptions were received during the last hour, so that the week's aggregate is likely to be considerably increased. There were unparalleled scenes in the streets during the closing hours, the train service being completely disorganised. Lord Provost Stewart, announcing the result to a large gathering, said that the people on the Clyde area had by that splendid achievement not only heartened their brave men on land and sea, but disheartened the enemy, and that Britain and her Allies a stage further on the highway to victory.

Last year only 83 emigrants went to the United States, 2 to Canada, and 13 each to Australia and New Zealand, 996 went to England and Wales, and 912 to Scotland.

FINANCIAL NEWS

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

Bank Rate (changed April 5, 1917) ..... 5 p.c.

LONDON, SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

The demand for loans was less pressing to-day, the slackening off being due to the usual week-end conditions. A larger amount is obtainable at 3 to 3½ per cent., and the accent was upon the lower figure, especially towards the close. Weekly loans were placed at 3½ per cent. Nearly a quarter of a million was disbursed in dividends, mainly upon the securities of the Indian Government. There was no material alteration in the Discount Market, which was steady at about overnight levels. Two months' drafts were taken at 3⅛ to 3¼ per cent., while three to six months' paper was posted at 3⅜ per cent., but slightly easier concessions were made in the case of first-class paper. There was no change either in second-hand Treasury bills or in cheques.

As a result of a sudden thaw, Stort and Lea Valleys are flooded, and the country from Bishop's Stortford to Tottenham is like a sea. At the former place several streets were inundated and about thirty houses flooded. Many country roads are impassable. At many places in the Lea Valley the river has risen several inches, and threatens to cause great flooding. Heavy rains following the snow have caused the flooding of thousands of acres in Somerset, and rendered many country roads impassable.

BELFAST AND DISTRICT.

High Flax Prices.—The prices which are being paid for flax throughout Ulster still remain high, and there is no doubt that the farmers are getting as much as possible during the coming spring. As at Ballymena flax market, no scutched flax is to be had for sale, and were graded at prices ranging from 28/- to 32/6 per stone. Several lots of superior quality exchanged hands.

Free Bread for Wounded Soldiers.—The new scheme for providing bread free for the Ulster Volunteer Force Hospital was inaugurated at a meeting of the Belfast Municipal Technical Instruction Committee on Saturday. The scheme is the result of the generous offer of Mr. Isaiah Boyle, one of the leading bakers, and operative bakers' merchants have given the flour, the master bakers the use of the baking and cooking of the bread, which is baked in the ovens at the Municipal Technical College by a staff of bakery students. The Lord Mayor, who presided, called upon Mr. Dawson Bates to read a letter received from the Duchess of Abercorn, in which her Grace said she deeply regretted being unable to be present on account of a bad cold, which she had very kindly forward to, Lady Cynthia Hamilton, who was given an enthusiastic reception, said that her mother's death deeply affected her being able to be there that afternoon, but in her absence she was glad to read her letter, as it was "inaugurating that splendid scheme." She wished to take the opportunity of thanking all those who, in all parts of the great work they were doing in connection with the war, and especially with regard to the scheme (Applause.) The proceedings concluded with a vote of thanks to Lady Cynthia Neathan, which was seconded by her sister, Lady Kathleen Hamilton. A similar compliment was paid to the Lord Mayor for his services.

INSURANCE AMALGAMATION.

A provisional arrangement has been entered into, subject to confirmation by the shareholders of two institutions, for the amalgamation of the undertakings of the London Assurance Corporation and the Sun Fire Insurance Company, Limited, on the basis of an issue by the former to the latter of 1,000 Ord. shares, fully paid, of £10 each, and 6 per cent. Cum. Pref. Shares, and £453,750 in War Loan or cash. The business of both institutions will be continued on present lines. The directors of the British Law Fire Insurance Company, Limited, will continue to give their services, and the management staffs and offices of both companies will be retained. Meetings of the shareholders of each institution will be called in due course for the purpose of considering the proposed resolutions. The consent of the Treasury Committee will have to be obtained to the fresh issue of capital if passable.

DUNLOP RUBBER COMPANY.

The report of the Dunlop Rubber Co., Ltd., for the twelve months ended 31st August, 1917, has been issued. The directors submit the following balance sheet of the company as on the 31st August, 1917:—The net profit for the year, after deducting an amount of £143,588 15s. in respect of interest on income stock, royalty to parent company, commissions, management expenses, and depreciations, amounted to £435,109 1s. 5d.; and amount carried forward from last year, £82,530 2s. 1d. —total, £518,039 3s. 6d. The following payments have been made:—Quarterly dividends on the A and B Preference Shares to 31st August, 1917, amounting to £89,935 6s. 8d.; an interim dividend on the Ordinary Shares at the rate of 12½ per cent. per annum for the six months to the 28th February, 1917, amounting to £62,500; a second interim dividend on the Ordinary Shares at the rate of 17½ per cent. per annum for the six months to the 31st August, 1917, amounting to £87,500. The directors propose to write off the item of freehold and leasehold land and buildings, plant, etc., including the enhanced cost, owing to war conditions, of plant and buildings acquired during the year £75,000; to write off the expenses of new capital issues, £89,648 19s. 5d.; leaving a balance to be carried forward of £103,456 17s. 5d. The profits of the rubber estates to April 30th, 1917, amounting to £165,822 18s. 9d., have not been brought into the accounts. The profits for the current year, of which eight months have elapsed, are estimated substantially to exceed this figure. Certain ratios due to the company from Russia have not been taken into account. In addition to great increases of wages, salaries, general expenses, and cost of raw materials, exceptional burdens, estimated at approximately £300,000, have been borne by the company out of profits during the year, some of which will not occur again. The position of the company's business in France has materially improved, and the production, which is chiefly absorbed by the French Government, has been nearly trebled. Building operations on the Fort Dunlop works still continue. The trading of the company for the first four and-a-half months of the current financial year shows a very material increase. Since closing the accounts a sum of £340,000 has been paid to extinguish the Royalty of 6 per cent. on the company's profits, hitherto paid under agreement to the Parent Tyre Co., and this prior charge will, therefore, no longer appear in the accounts. Since the date of the balance sheet 1,500,000 of the new 7 per cent. "C" Preference Shares have been issued, upon which £937,500 has been paid up. Provision has been made for the remaining 1,500,000 shares to be taken up as and when required by the company. At the conclusion of the annual general meeting on the 29th inst. an extraordinary meeting will be held to pass resolutions increasing the capital of the company to £6,500,000 by the creation of 500,000 additional Ordinary Shares of £2 each. A second extraordinary meeting is arranged for the 13th of February.

WALPOLES' ROYAL IRISH LINEN.

It sometimes happens that Walpoles', because of their big contracts, are offered by manufacturers any surplus or imperfect stocks at a big reduction.

And it has been the custom of Walpoles' to pass these advantages on to their customers:

These are two:

Cretonnes

2,000 yards

at Half-Price

These are quite perfect: the materials are good and strong, and the designs are charming. The only reason for this considerable reduction is that they are manufacturers' surplus lengths—only about 50 yards in each.

This, and this only, is why they are offered at

1/0½ per yard instead of 2/- and 2/6 to-day's price

At such a time as this, when prices are "going up" and not "coming down," this offer will be most welcome. It is a decided opportunity for ladies to have Loose Covers at a very low price.

PATTERNS—Walpoles' will be pleased to send patterns, post free, but because of the small number of yards of each design they cannot be held responsible if any design is sold out. They would impress the necessity for an early order and a second or third choice.

Washable Rugs at Half-Price

These are the famous Sundour Unfadable Washing Rugs. Beautifully thick and soft, and of delightfully dainty designs, they are particularly suitable for the Bedroom or Bathroom. Walpoles' have a few for the Nursery, with animal designs.

And it is only because there are slight imperfections—not noticeable—in the weaving that Walpoles' are able to offer them at Half-Price. There are three sizes—

4ft. x 2ft.	4ft. 6ins. x 2ft. 3ins.	5ft. x 2ft 9ins.
11/6	15/6	19/6 each

Two Blankets of Great Value

A few pairs of Yorkshire Blankets, beautifully warm.

Single Bed Size,

19/6 and 25/6 per pair.

Loose Covers at Pre-War Prices

This Half-Price offer of Cretonnes enables ladies to get Loose Covers at pre-war rates, especially as Walpoles' have not increased their prices for making.

Please write for Folder, "All About Loose Covers."
